Star Gazing
Orbiting Lab May Unlock Secrets

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A 10-eyed mechanical astronomer named Orbiting Astronomical Observatory sped around the earth today packed with the potential to unlock a host of celestial secrets.
"This is a moment of history in astronomy," a project official declared.
After five postponements caused by weather and mechanical problems during the last two weeks, OAO rocketed from Cape Kennedy into a near-perfect orbit ranging from 502 to 496 miles above the earth.
Radio commands from the ground today were controlling the large satellite like a fine precision watch as its 10 telescopic eyes were gently positioned to stare at stars, the galaxies, nebulae and interstellar gases.
From its lofty orbit, OAO can view stars from above the cloak of the earth's atmosphere, which blocks out radiation from many celestial objects.
The wave length, intensity and direction of interstellar radiation is the basis for many calculations concerning how stars were created and what chemical elements are in them.
As the spacecraft rode on the wings of success, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration continued to study data filtering in on an ill-fated attempt by a Centaur rocket to ignite its hydrogen-fueled engines twice in space Thursday night.
Centaur project officials said the space agency was "looking very closely" at the data to see if any changes were needed on an even larger hydrogen rocket stage scheduled to blast off July

During 80-Day Search
U.S. Lost Bomb In Sea 2nd Time

By BOB HORTON
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States lost the elusive H-bomb a second time for nine days during the great 80-day search off Spain — and was in danger of losing it forever in a yawning undersea canyon, it was learned today.
The 1.1 megaton device, retrieved from 2,900 feet deep in the Mediterranean Thursday, had shifted two weeks earlier along a widening ravine to within a few hundred feet of a canyon extending to depths of 4,000 feet — beyond the capability of retrieval equipment.
This exasperating development occurred when one-inch thick nylon line snapped as a surface vessel's winch dragged the bomb up a 70-degree slope toward level area.
The SILVERY, eight-ton bomb toppled 100 feet back into the underwater ravine and sank in the muck-filled bottom. There is remained hidden until April 3 when the miniature sub Alvin, after repeated groping about the black depths, sighted a piece of the weapon's parachute protruding from the mud.
Four days later, in the early morning hours in Washington, a cryptic message from Rear Adm. William S. Guest in Spain clacked off a Teletype machine in a Navy command post in the Pentagon:
"Target on deck of Petrel and identified as weapon."
The 10-foot long, 3-foot thick tube had been hauled up by the recovery vessel Petrel.
Then — and only then — was it definitely identified by serial number as the hydrogen bomb which spilled from a B52 disintegrating after colliding with a refueling tanker six miles above Spain's coast Jan. 17.
On Friday the bomb was being displayed like valuable pirate treasure before newsmen and Spanish officials who could assure Spain's peasant folk the nuclear intruder had at last been apprehended.
THE EXACT PRICE of the unprecedented operation — unique not only from a technical standpoint but also because of volatile security and diplomatic considerations — was not disclosed.

Flames Still Enveloping Her
All Except Two Of 496 On Burning Ship Saved

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — All but two of 496 persons aboard were saved when the sleek white cruise ship Viking Princess was swept by flames that were still enveloping her off Cuba today.
Passengers reaching Miami said the disciplined evacuation of the ship smothered panic.
Latest reports said two persons died of apparent heart attacks but the other 494 persons aboard were rescued.
"Every last one of the passengers has been accounted for," said a spokesman for the Flagship Lines Agency, operators of the ship, and none was missing. The spokesman, Stanley Thea, said 10 or 11 of the survivors flown into Miami on the last flight today were injured, but none seriously.
Earlier, the Navy said 484 persons were rescued and 11 were missing.
Some passengers said the 536-foot Norwegian vessel had been plagued by engine trouble, 18 as the upper stage of a giant Saturn IB rocket.

Edward Jonash, Centaur project manager for NASA's Lewis Research Center, said preliminary indications show that a Centaur rocket failed to ignite twice in space because of an inadequate fuel supply.
Officials speculated that tiny stabilization rockets which were supposed to settle the liquid hydrogen in the bottom of the combustion chamber misfired; others suggested something might have been wrong with Centaur's fuel pump.
When U.S. astronauts fly to the moon, a liquid hydrogen stage must ignite twice in space to propel the spacemen toward the lunar surface.
The space agency today plans to send a signal to its orbiting observatory to turn on electrical systems so officials can judge how much affect radiation in space will have on the quality of OAO's reports to earth.
Sunday the spacecraft is scheduled to be sent another signal which will pop off sunshades covering its telescopes. Information gathered by OAO will be sent to earth in the form of radio signals.
Seven telescopes developed by the University of Wisconsin will look at radiation emitted by "young" stars — about 100,000 years old, compared to our 6 billion-year-old sun — and gather information to judge just how and when the universe began.
Three telescopes in secondary experiments will study sources of soft X rays and low and high-energy gamma rays to tell something about stellar evolution.

Vital Zone Pounded In Big Assault
Prisoners Taken Several Weeks Ago Told Of Location

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers struck a Viet Cong communications center in the Communist D Zone 35 miles northeast of Saigon today dumping more than half a million pounds of explosives on the area, an Air Force spokesman said.
Flying single file, the giant planes made what the spokesman described as a "major assault" on the Viet Cong's military region No. 7.
Apparently prisoners captured by the 173rd Airborne Brigade and 1st Infantry Division in heavy fighting against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong several weeks ago provided information to pin down the location of a 10-building communications center which operated radio contact for the entire sector.
A major strike of B52's usually means 10 of the eight-engine bombers. Each is normally equipped to drop 50 750-pound bombs. A spokesman said this flight consisted of planes equipped to carry 60,000 pounds each.
The bombers also came in on target differently this time. Instead of dropping the combined loads at one time, the flight approached one plane at a time and each successive plane zeroed in on the same target.
The communications center was known to be an underground establishment except for the support buildings on top. The B52's bombs have special fuses that pierce the earth to 15 feet before exploding. It was presumed the first strike or two laid the underground complex open for the following flights to exert more punishment.
Asked if the enemy radio in the area was still functioning after the raid, the Air Force officer said: "No, it was silent."
The U.S. and South Vietnamese government forces together with their Australian, South Korean and New Zealand allies, carried on with military operations at undiminished pace.
The Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese regulars, however, generally avoided ground contact and the accent was placed on the aerial assaults.
Over North Viet Nam, U.S. Air Force and Navy carrier pilots from the 7th Fleet paid some damaging Good Friday visits.
The Air Force struck six staging areas, an army barracks 20 miles north of the 17th Parallel frontier and another barracks 75 miles west of Hanoi. Pilots reported seven buildings destroyed.
In the Hoan Lao storage sector 50 miles north of the border the complex was reportedly completely knocked out.
Two bridges and 16 roads leading to the south and utilized mostly at night by the Hanoi regime to feed their Communist forces in the south were also attacked.
The Navy bombers for the second straight day aimed their fire at water communications facilities.

Child Killed In Fire, Four Others Missing

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — Giant flames roared across a belt of apartments early today killing one child—possibly four others—injuring more than 30 persons and destroying 10 multiple-family frame dwellings.
Hundreds fled the blaze, which was described by witnesses as "a huge ball of flame...like a forest fire, a tremendous fireworks display."
Five-year-old Cindy Davis was dead on arrival at City Hospital.
Four children of Marvin Samuels were listed as missing.

Easter Sunday, the greatest religious festival of the Christian year, will be celebrated tomorrow with joyous rites and with song and spoken praise for the risen Christ.
To the devout Christian, Easter means a pause in life's accelerated tempo to meditate upon Christ's sacrifice for all mankind.
Weather Will Mar The Easter Parade
If the forecast holds true, Easter finery will have to be shown off inside tomorrow. It will be too chilly outside.
The weatherman predicts cloudy and cool with a few scattered snow flurries tonight and cloudy and little change in temperature for Sunday.
It embodies a burning desire to emulate the Saviour of whom even Pontius Pilate, the judge before whom He was tried and condemned, said, "I find no fault in this man."
EASTER MORNING worshippers of the East Liverpool district will join with the world in offering prayers before flower-bedecked altars. Clergymen will pay a tribute in sermons, while from choir lofts voices will be lifted in celebration of the Crucifixion and Resurrection.
Handel's "The Messiah," Mozart's "Twelfth Mass," "The Gloria and Excelsis" and other standard oratorios, anthems, and cantatas will swell to heaven in a crescendo of melodious glorification.
A number of sunrise services will usher in the day of jubilation in area churches, with many young people taking an active part.

UMW's Chief Gives Notice To Companies
Free To Strike Operations Not Yet Signed, He Warns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of the United Mine Workers says the union considers itself "at liberty to strike at any time" against operations that do not sign a new contract already approved by three independent coal companies.
President W.A. (Tony) Boyle said the contract, calling for daily wage increases ranging to $2.32 plus fringe benefits, is intended for the entire industry.
But he set no deadline for other companies to sign it.
A spokesman for the Bituminous Coal Operators Association said the UMW had not given the 60-day notice of contract termination, nor the strike notice required by the Taft-Hartley Act.
The union has not reached agreement with the association and no talks are under way.
Under the contract signed with the three companies Friday, top-rated miners — operators of continuous mining machines and inside electricians and mechanics — will receive an increase of $1.32 a day, retroactive to April 1. This will bring salary of these 10,000 miners to $30 a day.
Next April 1, all workers will receive $1 a day more. The immediate pay raise tops the 3.2 per cent wage-price guideline set by the administration.

U.N. Council Sifting Issue On Rhodesia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council was finally called into session today after a 40-hour delay which brought angry Western charges against the council's African president.
Informed sources said the Rhodesian debate might be held up by a series of Western speeches criticizing Ambassador Moussa Leo Keita of Mali, the council president, for alleged misuse of his power.
Some Western diplomats said the 38-year-old council president had brought the world organization face to face with a new constitutional crisis, involving the ability of the council to act in an urgent situation.
Britain originally had requested an urgent meeting for 4 p. m. Thursday and pressed hard for a meeting Friday, but Keita refused to call the meeting even after eight of the council's 15 members staged a sit-in in the council chamber Thursday night. He finally announced Friday that the meeting would be held this morning.
Before the council was a British resolution under which Britain would be authorized to use force, if necessary, to halt shipments of oil to Rhodesia by way of Portuguese Mozambique.
Keita said he was delaying the council meeting for further

Committee Leads Fight Against Ky
Move Comes After Effort By Premier To Reassert Power

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Buddhist leaders of all factions united tonight against the military junta of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and demanded an elected civilian government for South Viet Nam "in a very short time."
In a proclamation read at Buddhist headquarters, the leaders announced they had formed a committee to lead the struggle against the government and appealed to "all the people wishing to show their opposition to the government" to contact the headquarters.
The move came after Ky appointed Maj. Gen. Ton That Dinh to command the 1st Corps area in an apparent attempt to reassert his government's authority over the country's northernmost regions. Dinh was one of the young officers who took part in the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963.
Thousands of Buddhists, who have been demonstrating in the streets for the past eight days, heard the proclamation in the Buddhist compound.
It ordered the disorders to stop and said the Buddhist headquarters would take over the burden of the antigovernment cause.
The most important point in the document was the apparent unanimity of Buddhist leaders who previously had seemed split over their attitude toward Ky's junta and the war effort against the Viet Cong and Communist North Viet Nam.
Those assembled in the Buddhist compound danced with joy as the document was read. Buddhist monks in yellow robes poured into the streets of Saigon.
About 1,000 demonstrators started for the streets just before the proclamation was read but the senior monks called them back for the reading.
The document said:
"The United Buddhist Church reaffirms its position of joining the aspirations of the people. One of these aspirations is an elected congress in a very short time. This congress must be a platform where the people can speak about the sovereignty of their nation."
"Since March 1 until now the Buddhists have tried to reach a solution with the government to avoid many sacrifices and riots in Saigon. But until now many obstacles to form this congress have been put in our way."
"Meanwhile, all the activities of the people in their efforts to oppose the government have been separated. For this reason the United Buddhist Church has decided to accept leadership. We appeal to all branches of the United Buddhist Church to declare an emergency to all Buddhists."

Rockefeller Reveals He'll Seek 3rd Term

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York has formally confirmed that he will seek reelection for his third term this fall.
Rockefeller, 57, said Friday he was running because of an obligation to follow through on legislative programs initiated during his administrations.
Rockefeller's announcement also removed any lingering doubt that he would seek the presidency again.
"I gave up on that," he said, referring to his unsuccessful bid for the GOP presidential nomination in 1964 against former Sen. Barry Goldwater.

William McIntosh

Services for William Jones McIntosh of the Washington School Rd., Chester, who died Friday, will be held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Dawson Funeral Home.

The Rev. Donald Bell of the Westminster United Presbyterian Church of Chester will officiate. Burial will be in Columbian County Memorial Park.

Mr. McIntosh was born in London, Ontario, Canada, March 22, 1888.

Survivors include two sisters, Mrs. Alfretha Birch and Mrs. Emma Smith, both of London. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight and Sunday.

Phillip Munger

Services for Phillip R. Munger, Boy Scout official for the East Liverpool area, will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the First Methodist Church in Greenville, Ohio. Burial will follow there.

Mr. Munger was killed in a head-on collision of his car and another near Marysville, Ohio, Thursday night.

Friends may call at the Miller Funeral Home in Greenville Sunday and Monday from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Wellsville Man Injured As Auto Hits Guard Rail

Wayne Russell, 28, of 1229 Center St., Wellsville, was treated at City Hospital shortly after 3 p. m. today for a scalp laceration and possible whiplash injury of the spine following an auto accident on West Virginia Route 2, north of New Cumberland.

Russell was a passenger in the southbound 1966 model car driven by Melvin Kidder Jr., 28, of 719 E. 4th St., East Liverpool, which went over the berm and struck a guard rail when Kidder was blinded by headlights of an oncoming vehicle, according to the report released by Hancock County sheriff's deputies.

No charges were filed.

Stabbed To Death

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. John J. Seitz, 20, Cleveland, was stabbed to death early today during what police said was an argument with her husband. Police quoted Seitz as saying his wife Sharon grabbed the knife first.

County OK's Chloride Use

LISBON — The Columbiana County Commissioners have approved planned use of calcium chloride on some 27 miles of unimproved roads in five townships.

County Engineer John Ursu, has advised that 104,000 gallons of material, to cost about $9,750, will be used to settle dust and stabilize earth on the Elk run, Wayne, Center, Butler and Salem Township roads.

Elkrun and Wayne Townships will furnish $288 and $1,234 each, leaving the county cost at $8,228. The program also will cover certain roads in Butler, Center and Salem Townships. A breakdown of the projects follows:

Center Township — Lisbon - Steubenville Rd., 1.6 miles; Freeman Rd., 2.6; Black Rd., 1.7; Miller Rd., 1.3; Hahn Rd., 1, and Saltwell Rd., 1.85.

Butler Township — various roads, 1.75 miles.

Elkrun Township — various roads, 1.6 miles.

Salem Township — various roads, 0.53 miles.

Wayne Township — Lisbon - Steubenville Rd., 1.86; Glasgow-Gavers Rd., 4; Laughlin Rd., 164-East, 2.6; Laughlin Rd., 164-West, 3; Seigler and Dinch Rds., (part) 0.5; and Trinity Church Rd., 1.3.

Commissioners have turned bids for a tractor - trailer for the County Highway Department over to the county engineer for study.

The commissioners approved travel allowances for:

Donald Roberts, director of the County Mental Health Clinic, $375 to attend an Orthopedic Association educational meeting April 12-17 in San Francisco;

Cornelius Csepke, chief probation officer for Juvenile Court, $50 to return two runaway girls, wards of the court, from Cumberland, Md.; and County Recorder John P. Wargo and two deputies, $25 to attend a northeastern Ohio recorders meeting Wednesday at Smithville.

City Crews Complete Placing 'Stop' Signs

City street crews have completed erection of stop signs at streets and alleys which are accesses to state highway or bus routes, Safety - Service Director Robert E. Vodrey said today.

Some 215 signs were erected during the last two weeks in compliance with Section 464 of the City Code, the director said.

The code provides a list of streets designed as stop streets and reads "All state route and all sections of street and highway on which are operated motor coaches for carrying passengers for hire along a fixed or regular route under authority granted by the city are hereby designated as through streets and highways. . ."

Glenmoor's Firemen Seek New Members

An appeal for new members for the Glenmoor fire department has been made by the Firemen's Association.

Any man or youth interested in joining the department of the Junior Firemen — ages 16 to 18—for training may notify assistant fire chiefs Carl Lee and Vern Maple.

At a meeting Thursday night, the firemen discussed plans for the annual carnival in June.

The next meeting will be April 21.

Postal Exams Planned For Palestine Facility

EAST PALESTINE — Examinations for substitute clerks and carriers at the East Palestine post office will be scheduled soon. Postmaster Harry Andrus reported.

Applications are being received for the jobs, which pay $2.57 an hour. Applicants must reside within the postal delivery area of the post office.

19 Make Application For Various Ballots

Nineteen applications for absentee and disabled voters' ballots for the May 3 primaries have been filed to date, the County Election Board said today.

In addition, seven applications for servicemen's ballots — those for military personnel and civilians residing temporarily outside the United States — also have been received.

There will be a slight delay in issuing the Republican ballots to allow the Wellsville Publishing Co. time to print the office - type ballot, the board said, explaining that it did not receive official notification until Friday to place the name of William White of Mt. Vernon on the ballot as a gubernatorial candidate.

The Ohio Supreme Court upheld White in a decision Wednesday and ordered his name on the ballot, reversing a decision of Secretary of State Ted W. Brown. Brown had denied White a ballot place, contending his petitions lacked enough valid signatures.

The board said the printer expects to deliver the Republican ballots early next week.

4 Workers Hurt During $80,000 Cleveland Fire

CLEVELAND (AP)—Fire that engulfed the heat treatment building of the Green Ball Bearing Co. plant here late Friday injured four workers and caused damage estimated at $80,000.

Anton Whittmann, 33, of Parma, a plant inspector, kicked down a door in an adjoining machine shop to escape after suffering first-degree burns of the face and hands.

Three others suffered cuts on the hands when they escaped through broken windows.

A vat with 350 gallons of oil in the heat treatment building burst into flames and spread over the floor. John Sadowski, 50, who was alone in the building, said the whole room erupted into flames just as he ran outside.

Club Presented Plaque For Its Gain In Members

The Columbiana County Motor Club has been honored by the American Automobile Association for "outstanding membership growth during 1965."

An inscribed plaque has been received here by H. Jud English, executive manager of the county AAA affiliate, recognizing the club's performance. Membership was increased by 698, a gain of 5.9 per cent, during 1965, English said. The club now has 12,515 members.

In presenting the award, Trevor A. White, AAA managing director of club services, noted that while based on membership growth it was "made possible through acceptance of the club's continuing efforts to serve both its members and the community at-large."

Nearly 900,000 Ohio motorists and 10 million in the U. S. and Canada are members of AAA clubs affiliated with the Columbiana County Motor Club.

'Queen' Given Crown At Fitness Meeting

Mrs. Ruth Quick, who lost the most weight, was crowned "queen" during the meeting of the East Liverpool Physical Fitness Club Wednesday night at 7 at the Eagles Hall.

In addition to the crown, she was presented a fruit basket by Mrs. Lana White, president.

An Easter hat parade was featured. Prize winners were Miss Shirley Delposen, prettiest; Mrs. Cleon Booth, funniest, and Mrs. Mary Ellen Broadbent, most original.

A "sing-a-long" was directed by Mrs. Dorothy Ganas, with Mrs. Elda Forrester at the piano.

Light refreshments were served 22 by Mrs. Jackie McVay, Miss Mary Adkins and Mrs. Leola Barton.

The next meeting will be Monday.

Residents Get Tax Warning

Some 1,500 city residents, whose income is not subject to withholding, were warned today they must file final city income tax returns for 1965 along with estimates of 1966 income by next Friday midnight.

Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson said new regulations providing for interest and penalties for delinquent payments will be enforced starting Saturday.

Besides the final report on 1965 income and declaration of estimated tax for this year, payment of any tax owed for 1965 plus at least a fourth of the total estimated tax for this year must be paid prior to the deadline.

Verification of 1965 earnings must be shown at the time the tax audit is made, he said.

Wilkinson emphasized there will be no extensions granted except in extreme cases, and then only when a written request stating the reasons for the extension is submitted to the tax office.

Located in the basement of City Hall, the tax office is open daily until 4:30 p. m. and from 9 a. m. to noon on Saturdays.

Awaiting the last-minute rush, Wilkinson commented, "We're busy, but not as busy as we should be at this time."

$84,953 Recovered In Fraudulent Claims

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation investigators checked 443 claims in March and took action that led to recovery of $84,953, Administrator Willard P. Dudley reports.

Dudley said the amount came from 243 claimants who committed fraud to obtain benefit checks and from 80 who accepted payments to which they were not entitled legally.

Western Beaver Sets Move On Appointment

The Western Beaver School Board will meet in special session Tuesday afternoon at 4:30.

The board will consider appointing Frank Meredith, current supervising principal, as district superintendent in line with recent administrative changes authorized under state law.

The Time Of Resurrection

Easter in the Northern Hemisphere coincides happily with the time of resurrection in nature. Our mood is conditioned for this greatest event in Christendom by everything we experience when spring revives the earth. We can only feel sorry for those who must celebrate Easter in the Southern Hemisphere when autumn is arriving and natural life is in a stage of diminishing vitality.

In this hemisphere, the stage is set for Easter.

Let's Forget The Fantasy

Just when the U.S. war party had the military phase of the Viet Nam adventure going better, the moral phase has collapsed on them.

South Viet Nam—the so-called "Republic of Viet Nam"—is not a well-organized country whose inhabitants are panting for freedom, the dignity of man and a Vietnamese way of life patterned after the vaunted American way.

Politically, the "Republic of Viet Nam" is a mess. It never has been anything else. When Ngo Dinh Diem proclaimed it to be a republic in 1955, he was expressing a pious hope, not a fact. Despite U.S. aid to the Diem dictatorship, its opponents—mostly the same people who had ousted the French despite U.S. aid—continued to fight.

FINALLY, Diem was ousted the hard way—assassination under circumstances that suggested pointedly the United States wasn't sorry to see him go. That was in 1963. Buddhists had spearheaded the overthrow of the Diem regime.

Other governments followed in rapid succession. The Ky regime, now under attack, is the ninth since Diem was killed. Buddhists again are in the forefront of the opposition.

The United States has been up to its official ears in this political backing and filling, frantically trying to conceal what every correspondent knows to be true about the "Republic of Viet Nam"—that it is a loosely organized military dictatorship with a tenuous grip on a territory whose inhabitants are at each other's throats in a civil war.

There is no prospect of organizing a viable

Everything conspires to produce the faith and hope that are the proper mood for observing the high point of the religious belief that underlies this society and this government.

We have faith — the faith that sustained the greatest of all teachers throughout his mission on earth and his final ordeal.

It has sustained us. It is sustaining us in our present doubts and trials.

Easter in 1966 has special significance because our faith is being put to the test in war.

nation with a workable government exercising control by popular consent.

There is no prospect of anything in South Viet Nam, except endless frustration, bickering between religious blocs, strong-arm military rule, coups, assassinations and atrocities.

Whatever may be going on politically in North Viet Nam—the so-called "Democratic Republic of Viet Nam"—cannot possibly be any less worthy of the name of "republic" than what is going on in the other half of that warring demi-nation.

IS THE UNITED STATES spending lives, the well-being of its own soldiers and billions of its wealth to save South Viet Nam or the South Vietnamese?

Is it time to stop weaving fantasies and acknowledge that the only cogent reason for being in Asia is to thwart Chinese influence?

If the United States dared admit to its own citizens what is being done and why it is being done, there might be some hope of doing it properly.

In the absence of candor, we have had confusion as the fantasies caved in on themselves.

This country is playing international power politics to the hilt on the continent of Asia. If it hangs on long enough in Viet Nam, it will have a military base in South Viet Nam to match its big base in South Korea—a strategic pincers on either side of coastal China—the Chinese People's Republic—Red China.

This has nothing whatever to do with anything but power politics.

The moral phase of the Viet Nam adventure has collapsed.

It should be decently interred and forgotten.

Why Not An Unofficial House?

Harry S. Truman and Richard M. Nixon, former vice presidents, will be asked to make suggestions about the first official residence for the second highest official of the U.S. government. Another former veep, Lyndon B. Johnson, will be full of ideas, too.

If the matter is open for suggestions, how about asking Bess Truman, Pat Nixon and Lady Bird Johnson for their ideas, especially Mrs. Truman and Mrs. Johnson? They have had a chance to look at the No. 1 mansion's operation.

Here is another suggestion that might come in handy.

The new No. 2 mansion could be designed as an official residence only; i.e., for official entertaining. This would qualify it as a high point on rubberneck bus tours. Millions who visit Washington to drive past the White House or cling to the picket fence and stare at the First Family's residence could get some of the same satisfaction by inspecting the Second Family's official house. They could take pictures of it.

But wouldn't it be a fine idea if the official house concealed a tunnel to an unofficial house somewhere else in the neighborhood? No one would know about the unofficial house.

It would be remote from gawkers. Pickets never would show up there. No one would be trying to chisel off a piece of stone or carry off a memento. A family could sleep there, even have a cookout there without drawing a crowd.

The crowd would be over at the official house. It's only a suggestion. But there hasn't been a First Family yet that hasn't wished it had an unofficial house to go to when the White House became unbearable. Not everybody is fortunate enough to have a ranch in Texas and a rural retreat in Minnesota.

Watch The Brains Pop Up

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes has a legitimate beef about the way the federal government allocates big nuclear installations.

He is making it in behalf of his own state, but the beef could be made in behalf of any other state or any other area that has been short-changed on federal installations like that $360 million atom smasher Ohio hoped to land with one of three preferred sites.

It is the fact that the federal government keeps mouthing nonsense about wanting to put big new installations of this kind where the brains are, without asking itself how the brains happened to be there in the first place.

Brains follow the dollar, like the flag.

They gravitated to some of the most unlikely places for human beings to be on the face of this earth when the United States was developing the black art of atomic explosions.

Safety Valve

Rumors persist of forthcoming political earthquakes and tidal waves in Cuba, where repression of opposition is a way of life, as it is in all dictatorships.

Yet, a few days ago in the United Kingdom what amounted to a political cataclysm took place with no more uproar than changing the guard at Buckingham Palace.

The United States has a cataclysm every four years and a shakeup every second year with no suggestion of emergency, other than that put forward by the tub-thumpers and sometimes taken to heart by over-excitable partisans who believe the end of the world is actually at hand.

It's an object lesson in government.

The only way to avoid political explosions is to give the populace a chance to blow off pressures as they accumulate.

It's the same principle as a safety valve on a boiler.

It's like immunization against an onslaught of some dread disease by building up physical resistance to the real thing through dosage with the real thing in a weakened version.

Thus, the fatal weakness of authoritarian government lies in what seems to be its strength—its absolute power. By repressing every possible source of opposition, it guarantees that its opponents will be as absolutist in their attitude as the regime in power has been.

There is no give and take—only take.

There is no sweet philosophy of winning some and losing some. Absolutists have to win 'em all, because they don't lose.

When Castro goes, he may go in a coffin, the customary way to get rid of Latin American dictators. The best he can hope for is the new-style comedown currently favored in bloody-shirt nations letting deposed absolutists stay alive but dispossessing them of all privileges.

Americans get wet-eyed and flutter-hearted about their heritage of self-government. The Founding fathers couldn't have known what a fine job they were going to get credit for, because they only put into motion certain untried ideas that turned out better than they had any right to turn out.

Best of all is the guaranteed chance to throw out one gang of rascals and throw in another gang at periodic intervals. "Wait until election day and we'll get even with that so-and-so," grit furious citizens who think they have been wronged.

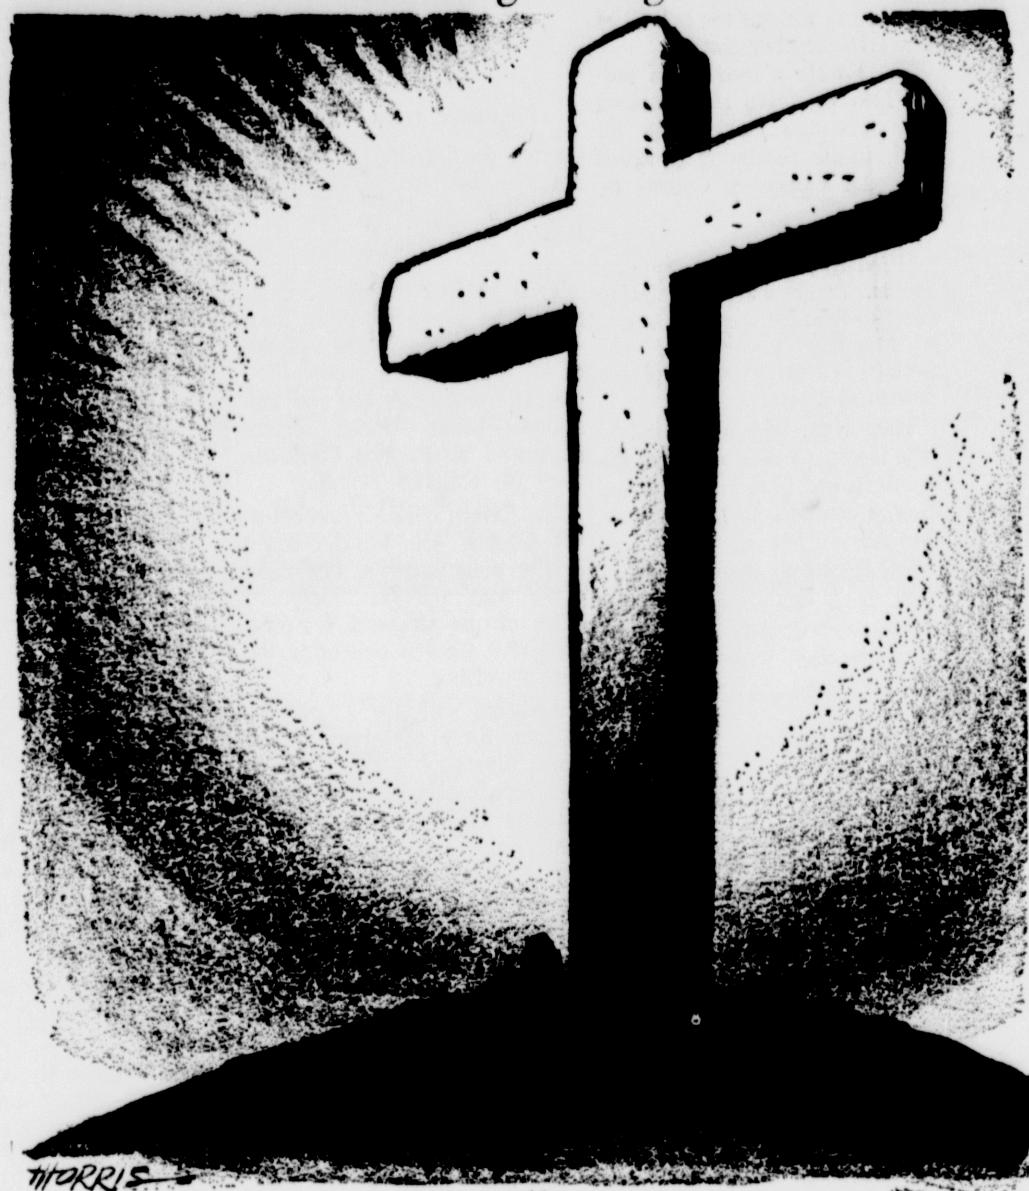

No need to foment a revolution. No need to stage a riot. No need to pull a gun. Just mark that little X on the spot where a voter can get even for all past grievances.

It's so simple yet so mystifying to people who never saw it in action. They can't believe it works, but it does.

If Fidel Castro dared to hold an election, he might hang around until his whiskers turned white. As it is, he will be lucky if they let him hang around for another beard-trimming.

Continuing Strength!

In Praise Of Robert Moses

By Raymond Moley

The early signs of spring at Flushing Meadow, where two years ago the New York World's Fair opened, remind me once more of a promise I made myself to say a bit by way of defense and praise about Robert Moses.

It was Bob Moses whose imagination created the grand plan of the fair, whose energy and efficiency put it together and whose persuasive talents brought to it exhibitors from here and abroad.

When the fair closed six months ago, public recognition of Moses' achievement was concluded over by petulant complaints from the bankers.

LIVING BY THE BOOK and their book-keepers, they attacked Moses because, they said, he had overestimated the fair's capacity to draw millions through the turnstiles. Reporters for the metropolitan press made plenty of copy over what was termed Moses' failure.

The root of the complaint was that the estimate of attendance of 70 million, which was predicted by ordinarily accurate promoters, engineers and accountants, had fallen short to 51.5 million. And the noteholders were left with some of their advances unpaid.

The answer specifically to those who held the notes was that, in truth, they should have understood that the money thus advanced was a contribution rather than a business loan and that their compensation was in the economic and cultural benefits to the city.

THE FAIR was more than an exercise in economics. As Moses himself says:

"What, you ask, did we accomplish? I believe we did what we set out to do—to build a two-summer university, an Olympics of world progress in culture, arts, sciences, business and recreation, emphasizing religion and playing down the midway, catchpenny stuff, bringing the hinterland of America and the shores of other continents closer to New York, projecting, if we must use Madison Avenue lingo, a better image of our civilization and raising Flushing Meadow another chapter from dump to glory."

"Let me add without apology that the great industrial exhibitors who poured their advertising ingenuity into astonishing glimpses of the future made out very well. Almost without exception they said the fair sold their products to the millions who stood patiently in line waiting to get in."

"It was in round figures a billion-dollar fair. In this sense our promises and prognostications were borne out by the event."

NO DOUBT the most profitable lesson anyone could gain from the fair was, if one could contemplate the Moses career, the value of such a man to the public he has served for half a century. Mayors have come and gone in these 50 years. Some left office under the cloud of failure—even disgrace. None went on to higher office. Robert Moses officially outlasted them all.

There is a notable parallel in history. After the passing of a century, the theatrical Empire of Louis Napoleon is the tale of a foolish pretense, of stupid diplomacy and national disaster. But the fame of the architect of a new Paris, Georges Eugene Haussmann, lives in the planning, the public structures and public works of a still beautiful city.

It's difficult to survey the City of New York from any angle and not see the permanent evidence of Moses' imaginative public creations. Gov. Alfred E. Smith discovered him when as a young Yale graduate he entered public service.

THE ELDER MOSES had left a modest income for Robert which relieved him of the necessity of earning a living. He decided, therefore, to give his life to public service.

During Smith's four terms as governor, Moses was at his right hand. Smith said of him that he was the "most efficient administrator" he had ever met in public life. Many state parks, arterial highways and the immense Jones Beach Park were built under the direction of Moses. Later there was the Triborough Bridge, which Moses still commands as chairman.

A later governor made Moses the directing genius of the St. Lawrence project. In New York City Moses was park commissioner under successive mayors, and new parks and breathing spaces grew in neglected neighborhoods.

Moses might have closed his brilliant career after three score and ten. But he gave six more years to the creation and management of the World's Fair. As time passes that, too, will be a monument to his genius in public service.

From Chaos

By David Lawrence

The Brighter Side Of Viet Unrest.

While the friction inside the South Vietnamese government is a disconcerting development, it could turn out to be a means of hastening the establishment of a government in Saigon supported by all the people.

Naturally, the Communists are trying to exploit the situation and complicate it further, but the South Vietnamese factions—both the Buddhists and the military — are basically anti-Communist and will not consciously, at least, allow anything to happen that would give the Communists control of the country.

David Lawrence

Obviously, the United States government cannot play any role except that of mediator and must convince the leaders of both factions in South Viet Nam that American help would be futile if a civil war emerged and the Communists got the upper hand over both of the contending groups.

On January 15, Prime Minister Ky promised democratic elections in 1967, and the American government supported this objective. The Buddhists now feel there should be a faster timetable, and this is what prompted the demonstrations and brought turmoil. Yet it's recognized that, back of the demand for a speed-up, there was a basic fear that maybe the military would dilly-dally over procedure and perhaps delay the elections indefinitely.

THE LATEST DEVELOPMENTS, therefore, will tend to clarify the situation, and undoubtedly a definite date will be set for free elections.

A trying period is ahead. As the Buddhists and the military junta carry on negotiations as to just how the elections should be conducted, there will be chances for the Communists to infiltrate and mess up the whole picture.

Meanwhile, further demands doubtless will be heard in the United States that the American troops be pulled out. This is not likely to happen but as reports of such a trend trickle in to Saigon, it will become apparent to the Buddhists and other civilian groups, as well as to the military, that the situation cannot be left to drift and that all the anti-Communists must in the long run be consolidated and present a united front against Communist infiltration.

Perhaps the best answer to those who superficially comment that the United States ought to "pull out" is an editorial in the London Daily Telegraph on Thursday, which said that the United States has no alternative but to "soldier on" in Viet Nam, "accepting the handicap of ineffectual and unrepresentative governments until peace brings the possibility of Democratic settlement."

THE EDITORIAL further expressed the belief that Prime Minister Ky's readiness to negotiate and perhaps even compromise with the Buddhists about the date of the elections "may have eased the immediate threat of civil war in Viet Nam but it hasn't solved the political crisis."

The Buddhists want a constituent assembly to take over in the next three months, and they have been boycotting the national meeting called to discuss the change. Whatever government is established, it has to have the backing of the military or else chaos will result.

The London Daily Telegraph editorial suggests that there might otherwise be a take-over by another military ruler before many months have elapsed.

The Department of State is trying hard not to become involved in factional disputes in Saigon and is interested only in protecting the South Vietnamese people against any Communist conquest.

THE WHOLE SITUATION is not a happy one for the United States government but, in the long run, it will have proved to the whole world that this country is interested not in promoting the ambitions of any group or bloc but solely in making sure that the Vietnamese themselves choose their own government and its personnel. The real issue is whether, when free governments are established, they can survive on the Asian continent in the face of Communist imperialism.

While the developments in Viet Nam may be unpalatable to the United States, more patience than ever will be necessary to vindicate the American position and to fulfill the altruistic policies which have been pursued and for which so many lives have been sacrificed in the jungles of Viet Nam.

Miss Donna Lea Laughlin And John R. Barrett Wed

A full-length gown of white peau de soie was worn by Miss Donna Lea Laughlin when she became the bride of John R. Barrett the evening of March 25 at 7:30 o'clock in the Hookstown United Presbyterian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Laughlin of Hookstown and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Barrett of Hookstown R.D. 1.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alexander Wilson before an altar background of palms, ferns, pink and white mums and gladioli and candelabra. Satin bows marked the family pews. Mrs. Sue Johnson presented a half-hour recital of organ music.

THE BRIDE was given in marriage by her father. The fitted bodice of her gown was fashioned with a scoop neckline and long, pointed sleeves. A long lace, embroidered with seed pearls and sequins, accented the straight skirt which featured a detachable chapel train.

Her bouffant veil of French illusion was attached to a double queen's crown of seed pearls. She borrowed the headpiece from Mrs. Harry Barrett. She wore a necklace of a single pearl, the gift of the bridegroom. A white orchid centered her cascade bouquet of white roses, carnations and stephanotis, tied with lace streamers. In observing the traditions, she carried a lace handkerchief, the gift of the bridegroom's mother.

Mrs. Linda Brooks was matron of honor and Miss Barbara Barrett, a sister of the bridegroom, bridesmaid. They appeared in floor-length gowns of orchid-pink brocade, designed with scoop necklines, elbow-length sleeves and bell shaped skirts. Dior bows with matching veils formed their headpieces. The mothers of the principals made the gowns and headpieces. They carried cascades of pink carnations centered with purple orchids.

Joe Barrett served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Harry Barrett, another brother, David Brooks and Larry Winters.

The mother of the bride chose a light gray crepe suit with Gloria White and Mrs. Mary Dunn reported on covering the tables with oilcloth.

Mrs. Velma McElhaney, president, conducted business, with reports heard from Mrs. Vera Hendricks, secretary, and Mrs. Mabel Neal, treasurer.

Any interested person is invited to the sessions and may call members for transportation.

The group went to the Dairy Plaza Restaurant for refreshments.

The next session will be May 4.

Candidates will be initiated during the meeting of Crystal Chapter 18, Order of Eastern Star, at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Masonic Temple.

black patent accessories and pink rosebud corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in Navy blue crepe with matching accessories and corsage of red rosebuds. Mrs. Sarah Laughlin, grandmother of the bride, wore a blue knit suit with white carnation corsage.

A RECEPTION for 200 followed at the Hookstown Grange Hall, which was decorated with wedding bells and streamers. The buffet table was centered with a three-tier cake, baked by Mrs. Cramer Gamble. It was encircled with flowers and wedding bells and topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Aides were Mrs. Elizabeth Walton, Mrs. Marie Anderson, Mrs. Hazel Torrence, Mrs. Martha Laughlin, aunts of the bride; Mrs. Barbara Waslosky and Mrs. Rae Marie Gamble, her cousins, and Mrs. Albert Weltner.

One of the floral bouquets were taken to Mrs. Jessie Torrence, great grandmother of the bride, who is a patient at Beaver County Hospital.

For her honeymoon trip, the bride wore a light gray suit with red accessories and her bridal orchid.

The newlyweds are 1965 graduates of South Side High School and are receiving friends at the rear of 516 Virginia Ave., Chester.

Miss Linda Johnson Weds In Wellsville Ceremonies

Miss Linda Susan Johnson, daughter of Mrs. Frances Lue Johnson of Broadway, Wellsville, became the bride of James W. Bauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Bauer of the Salsville Rd., the evening of April 1 at 7 o'clock in the First Christian Church of Wellsville.

The Rev. Robert Andrews officiated for the double-ring ceremony. Ralph Falconer, church organist, presented a half-hour recital of wedding music.

Given in marriage by her uncle, William S. Robinson, the bride wore a white wool suit with orchid accessories. She carried an arrangement of white carnations and stephanotis, centered with an orchid, on a Bible, the gift of her grandfather, Fred Robinson. The familiar traditions were observed.

Miss Nancy Lee Johnson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a pale pink wool suit with deep pink accessories and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink carnations and lily-of-the-valley.

Edward Bauer served as his brother's best man.

The mother of the bride chose a beige knit dress with orange accessories and the bridegroom's mother a white knit suit with raspberry color accessories. Orchid corsages complemented their attire.

A reception for 150 followed in Fellowship Hall. The buffet table was centered with a three-tier cake, placed on swan separators and topped with a miniature bridal couple.

Miss Mary Lue Johnson, sister of the bride, registered guests from Toronto, Meadville, Martins Ferry and Steubenville.

The newlyweds are residing in a mobile home at the Echo Dell Trailer Court. The bridegroom is employed at Patterson Industries.

'God's Heroes To Go On Display At Canton'

Ceremonies Set At 'Christian Hall Of Fame'

The "Christian Hall of Fame" will be opened formally Easter Sunday at 10 a.m. at the Canton Baptist Temple above.

It originally will feature a collection of 43 original oil portraits of great Christian leaders, with the collection to be enlarged to 66 within the next 12 months.

The portraits will trace the progress of Biblical Christianity from the time of the closing of the New Testament canon, in approximately 100 A.D., up to the present.

Among the men included are early church fathers such as Tertullian, Polycarp and Ignatius; reformers such as Luther, Calvin, Knox and Zwingli; missionaries such as Hudson Taylor, William Carey and David Livingstone, and evangelists, such as Dwight L. Moody, Billy Sunday, Gypsy Smith and Dr. Bob Jones Sr.

Beneath each portrait will be a 100-125 word "history" of the man. These portraits and histories will be displayed in the long corridors that completely encompass the church building. The halls are 20 feet wide and 260 feet long. The main lobby of the temple will be used as a missionary section. The lobby is 32 feet wide and 64 feet long. Each portrait will be 2 feet wide and 3 feet long.

The Christian Hall of Fame will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Easter Sunday and each week day thereafter from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Rev. Conway To Preach At Methodists' Services

"I Am the Resurrection and the Life" will be the Easter theme of the Rev. Allen Conway of the First Methodist Church tomorrow during 10:45 a.m. worship.

The service will open with the prelude, "Easter Morning on Mt. Rubidoux" (Gaul), played by Helen Richards at the organ and Joanne Vannoy at the grand piano.

The Chancel Choir will sing the second anthem, "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" (Nicolai). Mrs. Richards and Miss Vannoy will be playing on the organ and piano for the offertory, "Kamennoi - Ostrow" (Rubenstein), and the postlude, "The King of Heaven, the Glorious King!" (Lundquist).

During the services the Children's Caroler Choir will sing, "O Joyous Easter Morning" led by Doris Arnold, director.

The ushers will be under the direction of Robert Miller, head usher.

Sue Ann Muller of East Liverpool admires the cleverly decorated interior of a hollowed-out egg. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Muller of Lisbon St.

Handicraft For The Holiday

Inside The Easter Egg

SOME OF THE fun of Easter is found in the challenge of cooking or baking or in the decorating handicrafts which mark the spring holiday season.

An example of the skilled work which goes into decorating has been on display at the Carnegie Public Library — miniature Easter or storybook scenes inside hollowed-out egg shells.

Mrs. Margaret Guyton of 1123 Pope Ave., staff aide at the library, reports the origin of the idea of using egg shells is uncertain, but is believed to come from Central Europe as part of a long tradition of Easter observances.

Many of the patrons visiting the library no doubt have wondered how a fragile egg shell could be hollowed out, a proper opening formed and the tiny figures and background placed inside.

Mrs. Guyton, who with other staff members made many of the items exhibited in the foyer of the library entrance, explains the eggs are first punctured at each end and the yoke and white then blown out.

CARE MUST BE taken to break the shell evenly. Manicure scissors have been found to be the most efficient instrument for this purpose, Mrs. Guyton said.

After the desired size of opening is cut out bit by bit, a decorative cord is placed around the edge to cover up the rough edges. Another length of cord may be glued around the bottom of the shell to provide a support base.

All kinds of figurines or decorating items can then be placed inside the empty shell. Background scenes or figures may be cut from greeting cards, for instance, and may be placed at varying depths to produce a three-dimensional effect.

Of particular interest to Mrs. Hilda McEwen of 1601 St. Clair Ave., the children's librarian, are the storybook scenes painted in watercolors on the outside of the shells. One painted egg depicts the toad escaping his pursuer in "The Wind In The Willows". Another shows Alice of "Alice In Wonderland" facing the Red Queen.

For the most part, however, Easter scenes are used, with rabbits and flowers the favorite subjects. Other types of animals, such as kittens or a variety of domestic pets, are used as the center of attraction in some eggshell interior scenes.

Cut cloth material and sequins may be used for additional embellishment.

SURPRISINGLY ENOUGH, some of the eggshells displayed have been utilized for exhibits for more than six years. These were part of decorations on the original tree, presented to the library by a Sunday School class taught by Mrs. Eva Pittenger.

The trees have been placed each succeeding year in the children's reading room.

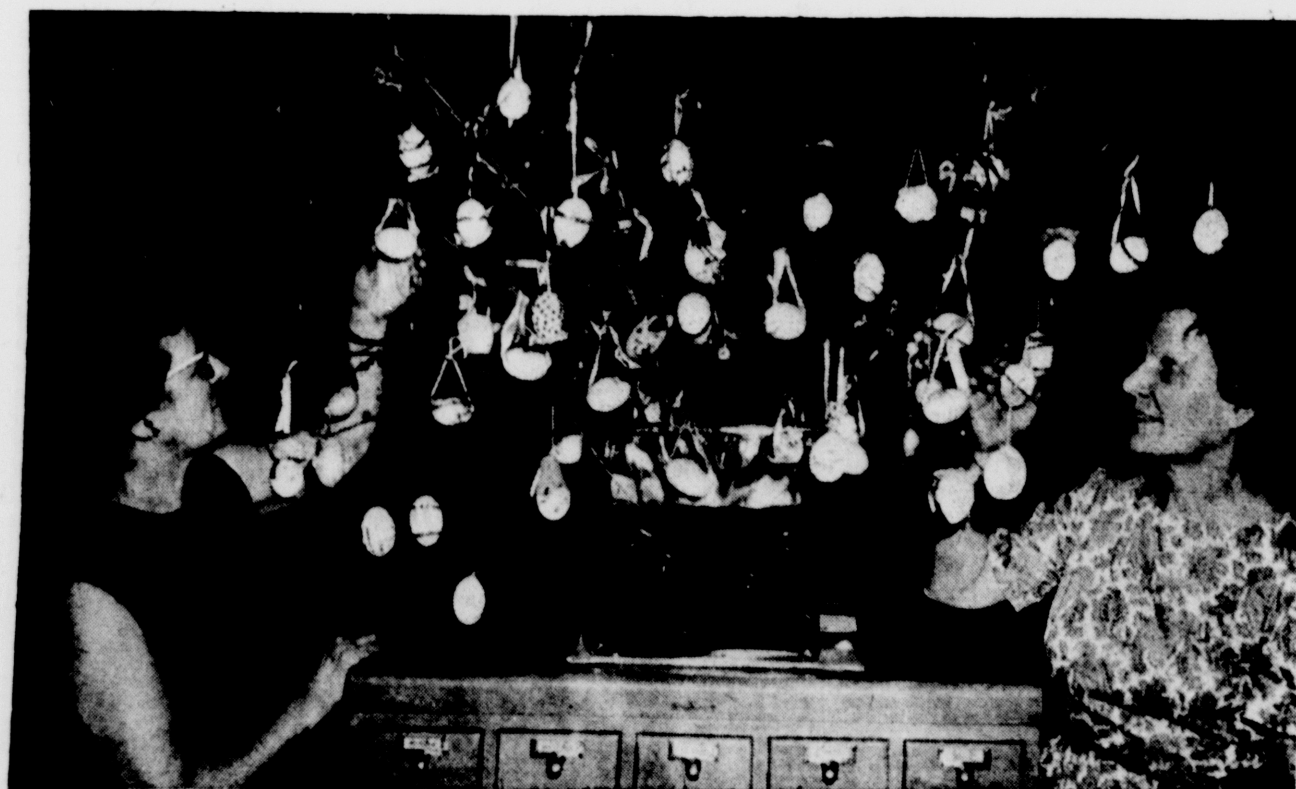

Mrs. Guyton pointed out that spraying the eggs with shellac after painting helps to preserve them.

The problem of safely carrying the fragile objects is solved by using a regulation egg carton.

From start to finish, the process of decorating an eggshell does not require as much time as one would suppose, according to Mrs. Guyton. After a person becomes adept, the operation can be completed in less than a half hour.

A bright, feathered Easter hat is worn by this "miss" made by Mrs. Guyton.

A close-up view of the egg fashioned by Mrs. David McEwen of St. Clair Ave. reveals a tiny dog cavorting under a bird on a tree.

Some of the items displayed for the Easter season at the library include paper cut-outs and figures for which eggs are used as the heads.

Alice in Wonderland is depicted in watercolor in a colorful egg scene.

A stern Red Queen reprimands Alice on the opposite side of the "Alice" egg.

Outdoor Notes

A FIRST AID kit is one item no sportsman, or any family that enjoys the outdoors, should be without. It must be considered a necessity—not a luxury.

A first aid kit will prove itself invaluable while camping, picnicking, fishing, etc. and is well worth the little that it will cost.

A small kit assembled by my oldest son, Jeff, as a Boy Scout project has proved its worth many times over. It is used often, or and is taken along on all family outings and picnics and by myself when fishing. The kit is one of the items on a checklist and seldom is forgotten.

There are many commercial first aid kits on the market which are very good.

The prices range from $1 to $15, depending on what you feel is necessary to have.

However, one made up yourself can be just as sufficient. A kit does not have to resemble a doctor's satchel or contain all the known medications on the market.

FIRST DECIDE what you are going to use for a container or case. Ours is a small metal box with a hinged lid. It measures about 12 inches long, 6 inches wide and is about 5 inches deep.

A small ditty bag or beach bag can be used. Find what is suitable for your use and then properly mark it.

Before you start, obtain a booklet on first aid. The one in our kit naturally is of the Boy Scouts merit badge series. The local Red Cross office has a booklet for 75 cents.

Read very carefully. Familiarize yourself with the general procedures followed in various types of emergencies.

Then begin preparing your first aid kit. Include the booklet. You might need your memory refreshed in case of an emergency.

A few basic items are all that are needed to start out. This includes bandages, a germicide, a small pair of scissors, a sling for use in event of a broken arm, cotton, adhesive tape, a cream or solution for insect bites, another for minor burns, etc.

Our kit contains a few additional articles. There is medication for an upset stomach, just in case someone might eat something that disagrees with them, aspirin for a headache and a motion sickness medication. The latter is especially handy when you have children who are liable to get car sick. Also mighty good for someone who can't stand the steady rocking of a small boat caused by waves on a lake. This is not funny and can happen almost anytime.

USUALLY THE ROCKING doesn't bother me, but I have seen some people who got seasick and it wasn't pleasant.

In one of the back pages of the Boy Scout booklet is a list for assembling a first aid kit for home or travel. It is just a guide but will give you a better idea of what you might need.

The list includes a bottle of water purification tablets, which I have, but which are not necessarily needed. Don't forget, if you have iodine in your kit, this can always be used to purify water in emergency situations.

One item I would highly recommend in an kit, large or small, is petroleum jelly. The uses for this around camp or in any outdoors activity in general is almost unlimited.

Petroleum jelly will soothe an abrasion or burn, is good to treat sunburn, can be used to waterproof your boots, will lubricate a fishing reel, serves in the absence of dry-fly oil while fishing, and it has been used for fish bait.

I also would like to suggest to hunters and fishermen that they carry along a smaller first aid kit. Most fishermen nowadays have a bag in which they carry lures and equipment. A small kit with a couple of adhesive bandage strips, a tube of antiseptic cream and perhaps a pair of scissors and tweezers is all that is necessary.

If you jag yourself with a hook or the skin is broken on the fin of a fish, apply the cream and a bandage to prevent infection.

FRED E. MORR, director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, and Daniel C. Arbruster, chief of the Division of Wildlife, have met with Canadian officials regarding commercial regulations on Lake Erie.

The object was to gain the cooperation of the Canadian officials in establishing uniform commercial fishing regulations on the lake and to request Ontario to establish the same size limitation on walleyes as has been set in Ohio.

The new legal commercial fishing length on walleyes is 15½ inches.

It appears Michigan may go along with Ohio on the new limit, set to preserve brood stock for coming years.

The Michigan Fish Division has given its approval and the Michigan Conservation Commission will vote on the recommendation at its April meeting.

You And The Law

The delivery truck screeched to a halt, but not before it clipped the fender of Sam's car. After surveying the damage, Sam and the truck driver decided that both vehicles could be driven away under their own power. Sam wasn't as certain about himself, however. His head hurt and his neck was stiff.

After the accident report was taken by the sheriff, Sam went to the doctor. The doctor prescribed a few days' rest and some medicine. "Sam," the doctor added, "I'd like to see you again in a few days, just in case there may be some hidden damage."

THE NEXT DAY, however, Sam felt fine. In fact, he felt fine for the next several days—and forgot about his doctor's request.

The following week, the trucking company's insurance agent contacted Sam. "We've looked at the damage and are prepared to make a settlement," the agent said. "Do you have any medical bills or other bills?"

"Only ten bucks for a checkup. I feel fine," Sam said. The agent gave Sam a check which adequately covered Sam's expenses and the damage. Coincidentally, the amount was just what Sam needed to put a down payment on that new outboard motor. Sam promptly cashed the check and bought the motor.

The following day, however, Sam was feeling low. His head and back hurt. He went to the doctor's office and got some bad news.

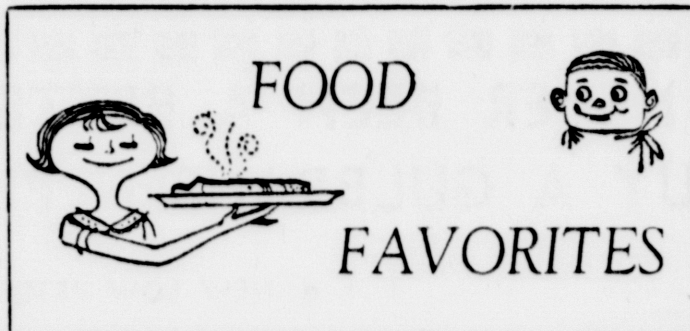

"Sam, some complications have set in. It's too bad you didn't see me sooner as I asked. I might have been able to help. I'm afraid you're in for some very expensive treatments."

SAM CALLED the insurance company. "Say, that money you gave me for the accident isn't going to be nearly enough to cover the medical bills now. I'll need another $300."

The agent sympathized with Sam, but said, "When you cashed that check you released us from all liability in the accident. The statement to this effect was plainly on the front of the check. I'm sorry you've got medical problems, but we're not legally obligated to you now."

Too late, Sam checked with his attorney. "Sam, you didn't read this check before you signed it. You released all your rights. Maybe next time you won't want an outboard motor so badly. There's nothing you can do to that trucking company now," the lawyer said.

Here is a recipe for ice cream for an electric freezer used by Mrs. Glenn Saviers of East Palestine for a 4-quart freezer.

ICE CREAM
2 quarts milk
3½ cups sugar
3 eggs (slightly beaten)
pinch salt

3½ T. vanilla
1 pint cream
4 junket (rennet) tablets.
Dissolve junket tablets in 2 T. lukewarm water. Heat ingredients to lukewarm only. The secret is to not let it get any hotter than body temperature. Let it cool for awhile before freezing it.

Who's Who In World Of Students

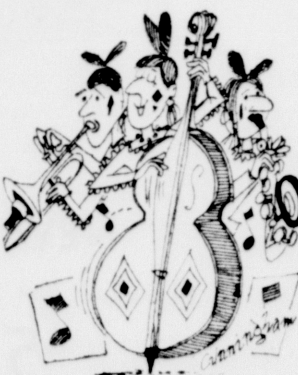

SUSAN TAYLOR

Susan Taylor of Chester, busy Oak Glen High School senior, has enrolled at Marshall University, where she will be a freshman in the fall.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor of 516 Florida Ave., she is a member of the National Honor Society and Future Teachers of America, business manager for the newspaper, co-editor of the yearbook and has served on the Student Council.

The Lighter Side

PERHAPS THERE are some abroad in the land who cling to the delusion that newspapers are written and edited in ivory towers.

Grandiose surroundings and a pipe-and-tweed-jacket atmosphere may prevail at some levels up in the hierarchy of such institutions as The New York Times and the Manchester Guardian — perhaps even Pravda — but the small dailies produced in virtually every American community of any size are put together in surroundings that are far from cloistered — even at times.

When the average citizen telephones a story on the annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Sussex Snipe Hunters, Inc., he can picture a specialized writer on the other end of the wire, puffing on a pipe, gazing with languid eyes as aromatic smoke rings ascend and making precise shorthand notes on a neat pad.

Actually, he's probably talking with a distraught fellow who's making helter-skelter hieroglyphics on a piece of old newsprint with a blunt pencil stub, meanwhile waving to someone across the room to answer the telephone that is jangling in his ear.

To compound the confusion, the reporter may be leaning over a desk at a 45-degree angle and attempting to hold a telephone receiver to his ear despite an overly short cord because somebody copied the reporter's rightful chair just as he answered the phone.

IN THE BACKGROUND are six Teletype machines hammering like so many miniature machineguns, the peculiar hum of a wirephoto machine, the high-pitched whine of a device which turns out engravings, a clatter of perhaps six other typewriters and miscellaneous scraps of conversation and the insistent jingling of bells.

Although each reporter has a particular field or territory which he handles regularly and understands well, no small-town newspaper's staff is comprised of specialists.

So the man who writes a story of a 4-H meeting one minute, then turns out a knowledgeable explanation of a municipality's budget may find himself moment later tackling a running account of a bank robbery or the pursuit of a wanted felon.

When the deadline pressure is on, there is no time for quiet contemplation, searching thoughtfully in a thesaurus for the word that will give just the exact shade of meaning or communing the muse over an unhurried cup of coffee.

But the stories are written in factual, readable style, regardless, because the newspaper writer's mind blocks out all the extraneous sounds and rivets all his attention to the flowing facts of the single story that has his attention at the moment.

SOME BEAUTIFUL PROSE has been turned out on battered typewriters in ill-lit newsrooms by harried reporters suffering the pangs of a hangover or the torment of a sinus headache—conditions under which the average man couldn't compose a five-word sentence that would be comprehensible.

Maybe the house payment is two months overdue, three of the children have the measles, the camshaft of the family car is broken and the reporter doesn't have the price of lunch in his pocket, but none of that matters when there is a story to be written.

Most small town newspaper offices today are modern, well-lighted and even air-conditioned. Journeymen reporters command salary scales on a par with other skilled artisans. But every newspaperman must work out his own salvation when it comes to quick, accurate assembling and writing of myriad facts in a sharply-compressed time span.

He has found from experience that only one formula works every time: The story that is being written right now is the only thing that matters.

There may be troubles and worries and frustrations in the past and there will be troubles and worries and frustrations in the future, but they're shoved into the recess of the mind that does not function from the time he sits down at the typewriter in the morning until he writes —30— to the last story that evening.

IF A YOUNGSTER with a treble voice telephones about a lost kitten or a violet pushing its way bravely through the March snow, that is the most important thing in the world for the moment. Governments may tumble and men may rocket toward the moon, but that can be taken care of after the kitten's plight has been recorded and the violet's unnatural behavior is made a matter of record.

And if the reporter finds himself two minutes before the deadline, writing the most important local story of the month in short "takes" of one or two paragraphs that are rushed

2 Cars Demolished Here When They Strike Poles

Two 1958 autos operated by teen-agers were demolished when they hit utility poles early this morning, but neither driver was injured. One was cited, police reported.

Milton Thomas Reese, 16, of 6½ Thompson Pl. was charged with speeding after his sedan struck a utility pole on E. 3rd St. between Broadway and Walnut St. about 3:45 a.m.

Reese told police he was headed east and as he passed the Broadway intersection noticed another car over the center line. He said he swerved to avoid it and his auto slid into the pole.

A witness, Jack Rudibaugh of R.D. 1, told officers he had just pulled out of a service station when he saw the car approaching at what he termed a very high rate of speed. The auto suddenly went out of control and crashed into the pole, he said.

Police said oil or mud was splattered on windows and the house at 410-412 E. 3rd St.

A sedan driven by James E. Smith, 19, of 1161 Harker Ave. was listed as a total loss after it struck a utility pole at Putnam St. and Hazel Alley about 1 a.m.

The crash also damaged the parked 1961 auto of Willa Nussner of Putnam St., police reported.

Smith told officers he was coming down the Putnam St. grade, but the car skidded in the mud and caused him to strike the pole.

A crash at 8:44 this morning on Mulberry St. near Pennsylvania Ave. involved a northbound auto driven by Benjamin Franklin, 62, of 639 River Rd. and a backing sedan operated by Louis C. Yanni, 47, of 536 Mulberry St.

Yanni told police he was backing from a parking lot and bumped the Franklin auto, which was passing. Yanni said he had looked in one direction but didn't look the opposite way before backing. Franklin said he saw the backing car, but was unable to halt because of the condition of the street.

Yanni was operating a 1965 sedan owned by Mike Turk, Inc., police said. There was very minor damage to it, while the right rear fender of the Franklin auto was damaged, officers added.

A backing mishap Friday night on the Loblaw's, Inc., parking lot involved a backing car operated by Harold Ernst, 50, of 915 Bradshaw Ave. and a parked station wagon owned by Gene Stockdale of 1009 Dresden Ave.

Arthur W. Eddy of 1074½ Pennsylvania Ave. reported to police early this morning that the left side of his station wagon was damaged by a hit-skip driver while parked at his home. The damage apparently was caused about 3 a.m. when a neighbor heard a noise, Eddy said.

BEAUTY AND THE BEAST. Model Nell Theobald posed happily with Ludwig, the lion, left, during a promotion routine at the New York Coliseum Friday. Moments later, the lion turned on her and bit her leg, not letting go until beaten by handlers. Miss Theobald was reported in satisfactory condition today at a hospital. (UPI Telephoto)

Lions Get 'Object Lesson' In Talk On Bible Groups

An Easter object lesson, similar to the kind given children attending Bible Clubs, was presented to the Lions Club Friday afternoon by Mrs. Ethel Richman, director of the clubs for the Christian Business Men's Committee, at the meeting in the Travelers Hotel.

"Visuals" are used almost exclusively for object lessons, Mrs. Richman said, since people remember much more of what they see than what they read.

Mrs. Richman placed a basket on a flannelgraph and then filled it with eggs labeled "new life", "forgiveness", "new name", "peace", "joy", "riches" and "glory" as the things that God will grant. Eggs always have been symbolical of new birth and immortality, she explained.

The children this year are studying the Old Testament and the lessons have been designed so that one character tells the story.

The teaching is "very rewarding", Mrs. Richman said, pointing out club members would be amazed at the children who are reached through the clubs. Some won't go to Sunday School or church and some never have heard the name of Jesus or about the Bible, she added.

There are 16 clubs throughout the area, some meeting in private homes and others in churches after school. The average attendance is 30.

She was introduced by Ralph Compa, program chairman.

Edward Custer, president, reminded members officers will be elected next Friday after nominations closed with only one contest — for director, with William Kyle, William Kozel, George Beck and Richard Walker as candidates for three seats.

Unopposed for election are Edgar A. Shingler, president; Charles J. Haugh, first vice president; Fred Kane, second vice president; Lloyd Gille, third vice president; Merl McSwegin, Lion tamer; Fred Yonz, secretary, and Earl Locke, treasurer.

The program will be the indoctrination of new members by Richard Martin, past president, and his committee.

Custer announced that the annual broom sale will be held April 26-28, with headquarters at the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. garage.

LBJ Recaptures Glowing Mood, Oratorical Style

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has recaptured the glowing mood and free-wheeling oratorical style of his first year in the White House.

This has become apparent during the past week — and particularly since his return Thursday to his native Texas — as he has largely ignored prepared speech texts and teleprompters to do what seems to come naturally.

Homey, off-the-cuff philosophy and reminiscences once again flow from his lips at every opportunity. And there is hand-shaking and baby-kissing.

Strangely, Johnson's renewed expansiveness has coincided with menacing political developments in South Viet Nam.

Perhaps the return home has been responsible, for as he told a San Antonio audience Friday, "I get a great deal of pleasure out of returning to the scenes of my childhood."

Perhaps spring has done it — here in central Texas where the bluebonnets are in bloom and the temperature, even under cloudy skies, heads toward the 80s.

Speaking mostly without notes, he increased by 400 per cent the length of a prepared speech here on signing a new law giving older citizens until May 31 to sign up for voluntary doctors' bills insurance under medicare.

"I remember," he said, "what my father said to me about public service when I was a little boy walking around following him barefooted and standing there in the hot sand of Blanco County, and squeezing the dirt up between my toes. He used to say to me, 'Son, if you are to speak for people, you must know them, and if you are to represent people, you must love them.'"

He chided those in his audience who grew restive as the master of ceremonies, Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., spent many minutes introducing local dignitaries in the crowd — and some who didn't make it. Said Johnson:

"I thought that some of our sophisticated folks might say this morning that Henry was introducing too many people. But that just shows how he feels about human beings. He didn't want one single person to be neglected. He wanted to recognize the dignity of every person here because they might be pretty unimportant to a stranger but they are not unimportant to Henry, or to me."

That this bothered him was apparent as he said at another point:

"If any of you want to leave, you can leave. If any of you are in a hurry, you can go on. I stay in a hurry all the time. I am back home now and I am not going to hurry. I am going to do what I like to do."

And that's just what the president did.

He talked about the people, and spelled out the word: "People."

Boy Turned Over To County Under Shoplifting Case

A 12-year-old East Liverpool boy has been taken from his home and placed in custody of the County Welfare Department by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin in the first case heard under the judge's crackdown on juvenile shoplifting.

The North Side youngster was found guilty of stealing a $19.95 set of "walkie-talkies" from a city drugstore. He will remain in custody of the welfare department for an undetermined amount of time.

The youngster has stolen an undetermined amount of other items, James Miller, juvenile officer, said.

Judge Tobin announced his crackdown Thursday, declaring that much of the shoplifting is being done by juveniles to earn what they consider a "badge of distinction."

In announcing his policy, Tobin said those 14 or older would be given time in detention while those under 14 would be removed from their homes for periods of time. He stressed that no exceptions will be made.

8 More Lose Lives In Ohio Auto Mishaps

By The Associated Press

Three Cincinnati teen-agers were killed in a one-car crash early Saturday, a Dayton man lost his life in a car-train collision and two persons died in Friday night traffic mishaps, jumping Ohio's Easter weekend death toll off to a grim start.

In addition, two persons injured earlier in the week died Friday and a heart attack suffered while driving was fatal to a Newark man.

Only deaths resulting from accidents between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday are counted in the weekend toll.

The latest deaths:

Bruce Apking, 18, Cincinnati. Paul Haggerty, 17, Cincinnati. Don Eckler, 18, Cincinnati. Arthur R. Wetz, 49, Dayton. Thomas Gilliland, 42, Wellsville.

Charles Burns, 53, Cleveland. Nancy S. Glickman, 21, Cleveland.

Elmer L. Strong, 68, Akron. Henry Buchanan, 67, Newark. Apking, Haggerty and Eckler were killed early Saturday when the car in which they were passengers went out of control and slammed into a tree in the Cincinnati suburb of Forest Park. The driver, Richard Wels, 19, Cincinnati, was in poor condition at Cincinnati General Hospital.

Wertz was killed Saturday morning when his car was struck by a Baltimore and Ohio freight train at a crossing near Dayton in Montgomery County.

Gilliland was a passenger in a car that went off Ohio 124 just east of Jackson Friday evening.

Burns was struck by a car Friday evening as he crossed a street in Cleveland.

Miss Glickman died Friday at Cleveland's Doctors Hospital from injuries suffered Thursday in a two-car accident in Cleveland Heights.

Strong, injured Wednesday in a Medina County wreck, died Friday at Akron City Hospital.

The Licking County coroner's office ruled that Buchanan died of a heart attack Friday night before his car went off a county road near Newark.

Robot Linked To Patient Artificial Kidney Looms As Aid In Cancer War

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The artificial kidney may provide a new and unexpected aid in the chemical warfare on cancer, a scientist reported today.

Dr. Pierre M. Galletti of Palermo, Italy, said experiments with dogs suggest the possibility of linking the robot kidney to a patient being given powerful, but potentially dangerous anti-cancer drugs — and using the robot to cleanse the patient's blood of drug remnants remaining after the chemical attack on the cancer site.

The idea, he told a scientific meeting, is to intercept the blood flowing back towards the heart from the cancer site, cleanse it in the machine, and shunt it back towards the heart.

The drug used in the initial attack on the cancer site would have been injected into an artery taking blood away from the heart, so that phase would not present a safety problem, he indicated.

Galletti, a visiting researcher at Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., described the animal experiments to the annual meeting of the American Society for Artificial Internal Organs.

Other reports to the meeting included:

1. A zip-on, zip-off plastic covering for part of the heart was described by Dr. Robert Jajchuk of the University of Chicago Medical School.

Employed so far only in dogs, but described as offering promise for human use, it is designed as an emergency aid to help restore the heart's normal pulsing action after a heart attack or a "cardiac arrest" — heart stoppage — during a surgical operation, Jajchuk said.

The plastic cover, secured to the heart by a zipper, is linked to a compressed-air pump, he said. The air, circulating inside the cover, exerts a pressure that promotes return of the heart's own pumping action.

2. More research on the hearts of sharks — as potential aids in developing more simplified heart-lung machines for human use — was urged by Dr. Armand Crescenzi of Pleasantville, N.J.

Dozen Watch As Thugs Rob And Stab Man

DETROIT (AP) — More than a dozen people watched from windows Friday as a Detroit man was assaulted, stabbed and robbed of $100 by two thugs on a busy midtown street.

"I don't expect people to run out and engage two people with knives," said Edwin Aaronoff. "But they could call the police."

Aaronoff, about 55, was treated at a hospital for two stab wounds in the leg. He is publicity director of a record company.

He said he was walking on West Grand Boulevard when he was approached by two men. "The two looked tough," he said, "and they glanced at me and then at one another as if to say, 'This is it.' I felt uneasy, but then I thought this is a main street in a big city in bright daylight. It's ridiculous to feel afraid."

Aaronoff said the two men separated and demanded money as he passed between them. He said people were watching the incident from a window across the street, and an old man watched from his front window.

Aaronoff said he tried to run, but the men tripped him and began to go for his wallet.

"I know it was a stupid thing to do," Aaronoff said, "but I started to fight back. I wasn't going to give up."

He said the two men pulled knives and began to stab him, trying to pull Aaronoff's wallet away at the same time.

"I was yelling for help," he said, "trying to hold them off until help came. I could see across the street. There were about a dozen people standing in the window of the insurance company."

The two assailants finally managed to get $100 from Aaronoff's wallet and fled.

WEIRTON MAN HIT CROSSING ROAD

A Weirton man crossing West Virginia Route 2, a mile south of the State Road Commission garage near Pughtown, was struck by an auto about 1 a.m. today and suffered a possible fractured left arm, the Hancock County sheriff's office reports.

Ira Ash, 56, of 506 Cove Rd. was hit by the northbound 1964 car driven by Alfred Guzzetta, 51, of Follansbee, who told deputies that rain resulted in poor visibility.

Ash also received contusions of the thigh and hip, according to authorities at Weirton General Hospital, where he was taken by ambulance. He is listed in "fair" condition.

Board Readies Report

On Police Brutality

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The three-man board of inquiry investigating charges of police brutality has concluded public hearings and is preparing its final report to Mayor John S. Ballard.

The board began closed session Friday after hearing the last of 25 witnesses—12 civilians and 13 policemen—in five public sessions. The brutality charges arose out of a March 21 incident in a Negro neighborhood.

The panel expects to submit its report about April 20.

Western Beaver Sets Scholar Fund Record

M. D. Renwick and Millard Arbutina, trustees for the Western Beaver district of the Dollars for Scholars drive, have announced that the campaign has exceeded last year's record total.

In 1965, $670 was donated, while this year's collections have reached $776, with some solicitors still to report.

Western Beaver's house-to-house drive raised $526, an increase of more than 10 per cent over last year's $470.

The trustees praised the work of Mrs. Camille Cambier, chairman of the house-to-house drive, the Future Homemakers of America, who assisted her, and the Western Beaver High School band, under Leo Curto, director, which accompanied the solicitors.

A donation of $100 also has been received from the Western Beaver Boosters Club. Both organizations, because of their contributions of $100 or more, will have scholarships named after them and will be entitled to have a representative at the awards banquet in May to present the scholarships, according to Arbutina.

New Officers Are Selected For WSCS At Georgetown

Officers for 1966 were elected during the meeting of the Georgetown Methodist Church WSCS Wednesday at the church.

Taking office were Mrs. Dick McHaffie, president; Mrs. Flora Lee Nash, first vice president; Mrs. Donald McHaffie, second vice president; Mrs. James Adney, secretary; Mrs. Paul Brandon, treasurer; Mrs. Kendig Laughlin, spiritual life secretary; Mrs. William Stewart, campus ministry; Mrs. Bernard Stewart, program chairman; Mrs. Harry Schmidt, promotion secretary; Mrs. Louis Wagner, Christian social relations secretary, and Mrs. Edwin Cooper, music.

Mrs. Schmidt recommended the Blue Willows for the out-of-town dinner meeting May 4 and the site was approved.

Reservations are to be made through Mrs. Schmidt or Mrs. Brandon.

The WSCS announced that a meeting of the South Side Fellowship Group will be held at St. Luke's Episcopal Church

May 13 at 8 p.m.

Members of St. Luke's and the Georgetown Methodist Church WSCS will serve as co-hostesses.

Mrs. John Finley was a guest at Wednesday's gathering.

"New Life, the Message of Spring," was the topic of the spiritual lesson.

Boy, 13, Admits

Disfiguring Self

With Safety Pin

CLEVELAND (AP)—Woodrow W. Hall Jr. went home to southern Ohio Friday night.

Still in doubt is how he received 20 safety pin scratches on his face and arms.

The 13-year-old youth from Letart Falls, Meigs County, told police Thursday that three youths jumped him on St. Clair Avenue and scratched him repeatedly with a safety pin while he was enroute to enroll in an east side junior high school.

Police said Friday, however, the boy admitted he disfigured himself, hoping his mother would send him home.

Before Mrs. Margaret M. Hall, 46, left with her son, she said his second account was a hoax and he told police that version because their additional questioning had made him nervous.

Committee Authorized

To Begin Negotiations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Trustees of the School Employees Retirement System Friday authorized a five-member committee to begin negotiations with Office Enterprises, Inc., for a long-term lease on the system's new 20-story office building at 88 E. Broad St. in Columbus.

The committee has been instructed to report by April 28 with a proposed lease from the Columbus firm.

Picketing Slated

To Resume At 2

Pittsburgh Stores

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Picketing was to resume today at two downtown Pittsburgh department stores which a civil rights group alleges are discriminating against Negroes in their hiring practices.

The United Negro Protest Committee announced Friday, following two days of picketing that pickets would march at the Gimbels and Joseph Horne Co. stores for the third straight day.

Police said the demonstration Friday was an orderly affair.

No further meetings have been slated with store officials, according to Matthew Moore, of the UNPC which is leading the protest.

A statement issued by management of both stores said that they recognized the legitimate concern of the UNPC in getting better jobs for Negroes and expressed hope that settlement could be reached through further discussions.

The UNPC contends that only a small number of Negroes is employed by the stores and that those employed are not assigned to responsible jobs.

Tickets For EL Cage Classic Go On Sale

Tickets for the East Liverpool Basketball Classic to be held April 22 at Memorial Auditorium have gone on sale. Reserved seat tickets purchased in advance will be $1.25 and $1.50 if purchased at the gate. General admission will be $1 and student tickets 50 cents. Tickets are on sale at Reark's, Hot Dog Shoppe in East Liverpool and the Magna City Lodge in Midland. The classic will feature four outstanding teams of professional and college players. Bob Wycoff, head of the tournament committee, announced Walt Mangham, former Marquette U. standout now playing in the Eastern Pro League, has been added to the Hot Dog Shoppe entry.

Two of the entries considered least likely to win were ahead of the pack today after the winds helped tame such touted title bidders as Jack Nicklaus, who in perfect weather a year ago captured the crown with a record 271 strokes. The big belter, who lost his putting touch, soared to a 76 in the second round Friday and was overtaken by Paul Harney, an occasional tournament player from New England, and Peter Butler, a burly Britisher who likes the wind.

- They grabbed the lead with 36-hole totals of 143 although neither was mentioned as a possible title threat before the famed golf tournament started. Favorites such as Arnold Palmer say the wind makes it anybody's tournament.

Davis Set To Make AFL Best Loop In Pro Ranks

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Al Davis, named Friday to succeed Joe Foss as commissioner of the American Football League, plans to make the AFL "the best league in pro football." Davis, 36, said solutions to problems involving the National Football League are not among his immediate objectives. "My first job is dedication to the growth of this league," said Davis, who had four years left on contract as general manager-coach with the Oakland Raiders when he accepted the appointment Thursday night after rushing from a vacation at Las Vegas, Nev. Terms were not disclosed. Foss, who had guided the AFL since its inception in 1960, resigned Thursday. His decision to leave reportedly stemmed in part from smoldering club owner dissatisfaction over loss of the Atlanta area to the NFL. Davis, who pushed the raiders from the cellar to Western Division contention in just three years, admitted he "left security." But, he added, "I do love this league and believe in its future." Besides his long contract, Davis also held an option for a five-year renewal. Davis' offensive backfield assistant, Joe Rauch, was named head coach of the Raiders and Gordon (Scotty) Stirling, public relations director, was appointed general manager. AFL President Ralph C. Wilson Jr., owner of the Buffalo Bills, told a news conference Friday that Davis' organizational and administrative abilities had attracted the club owners. "Al's background is football — at all levels," Wilson said. Before he moved to Oakland, Davis was an assistant three years under Sid Gillman with the Los Angeles-San Diego Chargers. Earlier, he had been an assistant under Weeb Ewbank with the NFL Baltimore Colts and had coached at Adelphi College in Garden City, N.Y., Fort Belvoir, Va., the Citadel and the University of California.

Reds To Get Day Jump In NL

President 'Warming Up' For Opening-Game Pitch

By MIKE RATHER Associated Press Sports Writer President Johnson and the Cincinnati Reds will be trying to snap two-game losing streaks when the major league baseball season begins Monday with the traditional opening day program. At Washington, the Senators will meet the Cleveland Indians in the Presidential Opener with Johnson, a tall, Texas right-hander with an 0-2 record in such affairs, the nominee to throw out the first pitch. Meanwhile, the Reds will get their usual one-day jump on the rest of the National League, playing the New York Mets in the renewal of an opening game tradition that dates back to 1876 when Cherokee Fisher pitched Cincinnati to a 2-1 victory over St. Louis. It's definite that Cherokee Fisher won't be on the mound at Cincinnati this time, and there's also the possibility that Johnson won't make the first pitch at Washington. Johnson is in Texas for an Easter holiday and there has been no definite word about his plans for interrupting his vacation to attend the game. However, he might just want to take a crack at being a winner. Pete Richert will try to get the Senators back on the victory side when he starts against Cleveland's Sam McDowell, the Sandy Koufax of the American League. The Reds, who also have lost their last two openers, probably will send fireballing Sammy Ellis against Jack Fisher of the Mets. Few changes in the game will be noticed while tradition reigns Monday. But an eight-game program Tuesday figures to emphasize the personnel and franchises moves that have been made since the 1965 season ended with the Los Angeles Dodgers defeating the Minnesota Twins in the World Series. The Tuesday schedule shows Houston at Los Angeles, Philadelphia at St. Louis, Pittsburgh at Atlanta and Chicago at San Francisco in the National League and Kansas City at Minnesota. Detroit at New York, Baltimore at Boston and California at Chicago in the American League. Two of the teams are playing in different cities this year, the Braves shifting from Milwaukee to Atlanta and the Angels from Los Angeles to Anaheim, Calif. In addition, the Cardinals will make a short move to a new stadium by May.

Crucial Games In NBA

Lakers Eye West Title; Celtics Seek 3-1 Edge

By The Associated Press The Los Angeles Lakers can wrap up the Western Division final playoff in the National Basketball Association by beating the St. Louis Hawks tonight and Sunday night. The defending champion Boston Celtics, meantime, were favored to beat the Philadelphia 76ers in their Sunday afternoon game and take a commanding 3-1 lead in the Eastern Division final. This game will be nationally televised over the ABC network. "We saved a lot of good basketball for Saturday night," remarked Fred Schaus, the Los Angeles coach, at St. Louis Wednesday night after the Lakers had lost to the Hawks 120-113 and had their 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series cut to 2-1. Schaus looks for his veterans Jerry West and Elgin Baylor, along with Walt Hazzard, to outshoot the Hawks' trio of Bill Bridges, Zelmo Beaty and Richie Guerin. After the game the teams will fly to Los Angeles for their Sunday night clash. A capacity 13,909 at Boston Garden is expected to watch the Celtics try to virtually wrap up their series against the 76ers, the team that dethroned them after nine straight years as Eastern Division champs during the regular season. The 76ers, paced by Wilt Chamberlain and Hal Greer, beat the Celtics in Philadelphia Thursday night 111-105 for the first time in the series. The Celtics, led by John Havlicek,

LSU Athletic Chief Shot, In Hospital

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana State athletic director James J. Corbett remained under sedatives today, unable to undergo questioning by police on how he was shot. Officers said hospital physicians told them Corbett, 46, would not be able to talk with them before Sunday, if then. Corbett was shot Thursday night with a 22-caliber pistol, police said. Ballistics tests showed the bullet was fired from a derringer, police said. Corbett was found slumped over the steering wheel of his car after it swerved off a street and hit a tree. He underwent surgery Friday and received several blood transfusions. State police Supt. Tom Burbank said Corbett must have been shot while outside his car, since there was little blood on the seat. The only clue reported by police was Corbett's statement during almost incoherent mumbling that, "This is what you get when you try to help someone." Corbett suffered a serious heart attack in 1958. Attendants said he complained of chest pains after surgery Friday. A heart specialist was called in. The bullet entered the left shoulder and coursed downward, lodging just under the skin beneath the left shoulder blade and cutting an artery. Police said the shooting happened during a 25-minute period between the time Corbett left a supper club at 11:30 p.m. and the time that police received a telephone call reporting the car hitting the tree.

Shakes Keane's Opening-Day Plans

Mantle Goes 7 Innings, Asking For Steady Work

By DICK COUCH Associated Press Sports Writer Forget that $100,000 pinch hitter on the end of the New York Yankees bench and reserve a spot in the starting line-up for Mickey Mantle. Mantle, baseball's fabulous invalid, shook up Manager Johnny Keane's opening-day plans Friday night at Atlanta by making his first start of the spring, playing seven innings in the Braves and then asking for steady work when the Yankees open the season. Keane will be happy to revise his line-up — inserting Mantle alongside Tom Tresh and Roger Maris in the outfield — if Mickey feels he's ready when Detroit invades Yankee Stadium Tuesday. The Houston Astros trimmed the Tigers 6-4 on Jim Wynn's three-run homer in the eighth inning and the Chicago Cubs defeated the Cleveland Indians 9-5 in 12 innings in Friday night's other exhibition play. The Cincinnati Reds-Chicago White Sox game at Knoxville, Tenn., only daytime action scheduled, was rained out. Mantle, who grudgingly admitted only a few days ago that "I can't throw a ball 100 feet," surprised Keane by asking for a starting spot in the opener of the three-game exhibition set in the Braves' new home. "When I came to the park tonight I had no idea of playing," he said afterward. "But my arm felt very good. I figured I had to start sometime and it might as well be here. If I loused things up in an exhibition game, it wouldn't matter. Mantle didn't throw anybody out but the Braves didn't take any extra bases on his no-longer strong right arm. He handled several routine chances in left field, made three soft but accurate throws to the infield and lined his first hit of the spring — an RBI single in the fifth — in four trips to the plate. In his only previous exhibition appearance, Mickey had struck out as a pinch hitter against Philadelphia last month.

40 Schools Due For Track Event At East Palestine

EAST PALESTINE — Some 40 district schools are expected to take part in the sixth annual Tri-State Track Coaches Association track and field meet here next Saturday. Squads from western Pennsylvania, northern West Virginia and eastern Ohio will participate. W. E. Ward of East Palestine, manager, said. The high point trophy will be awarded by the East Palestine Chamber of Commerce. Mount Lebanon and Bethel Park of the Pittsburgh area tied for first place last year. Vern Smith, Thornton On All-Eastern Vern Smith, leading scorer on the Potter basketball squad and Wellsville's top point-maker Harry Thornton will be among 10 Class AA players honored at the all-Eastern Ohio banquet April 18 at Martins Ferry. Smith and Thornton were named to the Class AA squad while 21 Class AA players were selected. The banquet will be held at the St. Mary's School beginning at 7 p.m. Smith and Thornton will be accompanied by their respective coaches Frank Chan and Jack McDevitt. Bucky Waters, head coach at West Virginia University, will be guest speaker.

3 Governors Likely To Attend First Game

CINCINNATI (AP) — There's a possibility three governors will attend the National League baseball opener Monday between the Cincinnati Reds and New York Mets. Reds Owner William O. DeWitt Friday invited New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller to attend. Rockefeller has not yet replied. Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio is to throw out the first pitch. Gov. Edward Breathitt is also scheduled to participate in pregame ceremonies.

Hinton Gets Call At First McDowell Named Tribe's Starter On Opening Day

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Cleveland Indians Manager Birdie Tebbetts, who already is figuring his opening day lineup, sat through 12 innings only to see the Cleveland Indians lose to the Chicago Cubs Friday night, 9-5, on a wild throw. Tebbetts has selected Chuck Hinton to play first base opening day instead of Fred Whitfield, who has a bruised elbow. Leon Wagner will start in left field, but Tebbetts will go no further in disclosing the batting order. Sam McDowell will be starting pitcher and the lineup against the Washington Senators likely will be: Vic Davalillo, CF; Max Alvis, 3B; Wagner, LF; Rocky Colavito, RF; Hinton, 1B; Pedro SS; Joe Azcue, C, and McDowell, P. The loss to the Cubs snapped the tribe's eight-game winning streak. Both teams went scoreless for six innings. Heffner, the sixth Indians pitcher, committed a throwing error on a double play ball in the 12th inning and Glen Becker followed with a two-run single to break a 5-5 tie. Heffner re-loaded the bases with a walk and Ron Santo drove in two more runs. The Indians play the Los Angeles Dodgers at Los Angeles tonight.

Changes Set At Speedway Near Clinton

1966 will be the year of the "Big Change" at the Greater Pittsburgh Speedway.

Whitey Hollowood, General Manager of the super fast Clinton, Pa. oval announced today that the Speedway would open the racing season on Sunday afternoon, April 17 with a full program of super modified and amateur division racing.

Hollowood also announced that there would be some major changes for the 1966 racing season. One of the many changes will be an open competition policy for both super modified and amateur division cars.

The Greater Pittsburgh Speedway Racing Association has been discontinued and no competitor will be required to join any association to race.

Many of the racing rules and regulations have been changed for the betterment of the sport. All owners, drivers, sponsors, and officials, plus the spectators will be covered by the highest limits of insurance available on the market today.

A complete new type of racing program will be in effect on opening day that is sure to please both drivers and fans alike.

Many new events are being added to the racing schedule. Motorcycle races, T.Q. midgits, midgits, powder puff races for the lady drivers and demolition races will be part of the agenda for the coming season.

The Speedway will run three Sunday afternoons starting with April 17 and running on April 24 and May 1 then switch to the regular Friday night schedule for May 6, with the first long distance race of the season for the super modifieds, a 50-lap feature event, to top off the first race under the lights.

Afternoon racing will have a 2:30 p. m. starting time with time trials at 1:15 p. m. Racing under the arcs will start at 8:30, with time trials at 7:15.

Canadiens Nip Leafs, 4 To 3, In Cup Game

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer MONTREAL (AP) — There's something about Lord Stanley's Cup that gives hockey players the jitters.

But Montreal's Toe Blake and Toronto's Punch Imlach hope the condition is only a temporary one.

Blake and Imlach talked about how tight their teams had been in the opener of their best of seven semifinal playoff while they prepared for tonight's second game.

The Canadiens won the opener 4-3 on Jean Beliveau's late goal in a game that left both coaches less than pleased.

"It was a sloppy game by both clubs," said Blake after sending his team through an hour-long workout at the Forum Friday morning. "There was quite a bit of pressure out there and you could see it the way both clubs were handling the puck."

Imlach agreed. "We gave the puck away too many times. We didn't play well," he said.

With the opener out of the way, both coaches hope their clubs can settle down and play steadier hockey.

While the Canadiens spent four days waiting for the series to begin, they have precious little time on their hands now.

Blake has the players lodged at a Laurentian Mountain hide-away and has been transporting them back and forth for workouts and games. It's a 1½ hour bus trip each way, but the coach believes it's worth the grind.

"It's important to keep the club together and up there they have no pressure on them for tickets and such," he said.

Reds Open Monday Against Mets

Heffner's Rarin' To Go To See If Changes Work

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Manager Don Heffner of the Cincinnati Reds is rarin' to go to see if his experiments will work out.

"I'm ready to start the season right now," Heffner said Friday after the Reds-Chicago White Sox exhibition game was rained out at Knoxville, Tenn.

"We haven't attained as much 'togetherness' as I had hoped and when we do I'm confident we'll be all right," he added.

"I've been moving men around the exhibition games for experimental purposes and this has been a big factor in our inconsistency. I think it's less costly to find out the versatility of your men in the spring rather than to face the necessity of experimenting after the season opens when an emergency arises."

The Reds open the National League season Monday against the New York Mets in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati has two days left to tune up for the opener. The Reds and White Sox play here today and in Indianapolis Sunday.

Heffner's most notable lineup changes have been Pete Rose at third base and Deron Johnson in left field.

The new Reds skipper says he sees favorable signs in the pitching of Jim O'Toole, 3-10 last year, and Joey Jay, who was 9-8.

"Jim recently has been much sharper than at any time I saw him last year when I was coaching the Mets," Heffner said. "Joey did well each time he pitched this spring."

The Reds' Sammy Ellis will oppose Joe Horlen in today's exhibition game. Chicago has beaten the Reds in all six games between the clubs so far this spring.

Researchers Give Pointers On High-Altitude Training

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 1968 U.S. Olympic team should arrive in Mexico City, the site of the games, either on the eve of the games or almost a month early, Ohio State University researchers say.

But one researcher says an OSU study on the effects of high altitude on physical performance suggests a third choice: "Just forget about the whole thing."

The Ohio research team is working under a $267,000 Army grant, trying to determine how troops would perform when moved from altitudes near sea level to high-altitude battlefields. They used two test groups of men, taking them from Columbus to a California mountain area. One group had undergone physical training in Columbus, the other hadn't.

So far, says Asst. Prof. Richard Bowers, the project has produced some puzzling results.

"An OSU swimmer who was the most physically fit of the test group and followed the military training, became violently ill after the exercise in California and had to be evacuated by helicopter. . . . On the other hand, our poorest physical example, an overweight member of the non-conditioned group did just fine, with little reaction to the altitude," Bowers says.

Mexico City is about 7,500 feet above sea level.

Bowers says a late arrival at the games might be best "because reactions become more extreme with the passage of time." If the team goes to Mexico City early, it should be at least three weeks before the games, "although I'm inclined to believe that performance would still be affected," he concludes.

3 Injured When Bomb Rips Anti-U.S. Policy Building

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — An apparent bomb explosion tore through the headquarters of the anti-U.S. policy Vietnam Day Committee early today, injuring three occupants and shattering windows a block away.

Police said there was a "heavy smell of gunpowder" around the heavily damaged dilapidated two-story pink structure "leading us to believe a bomb was set." There was no fire. Some utility lines fell.

The blast, which occurred shortly after midnight, also damaged two three-story wood residences at one side of the headquarters. One man said the ceiling of his apartment a block away caved in.

Three persons, all said to be students from the University of California Berkeley campus not far away, were reported to have been slightly hurt. They were reported as William Guyn, Riley Lively and Bruce Kristal.

They were reported to have been among a dozen VDC members in the building painting signs for possible future demonstrations.

The VDC has been in the forward ranks of the leaders involved in many demonstrations against U.S. policy in South Viet Nam, including last year's massive protest marches from the 27,500-student Berkeley campus.

The explosion came a month after an explosion at the W.E.B. DuBois Club's national headquarters in San Francisco, which is across the bay from Berkeley.

That blast, in which none was hurt, definitely was caused by a bomb.

Hawks-Wings Playoff Fray First On TV

By JOE MOOSHL

Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Black Hawks and the Detroit Red Wings will make hockey History Sunday when they play in the first nationally televised Stanley Cup playoff game.

And if the game, the first of at least three and possibly five Sunday afternoon telecasts by the National Broadcasting Co., is anything like Thursday night's opener, those watching will be in for a special treat.

Although his club dropped the opener of the best-of-seven semifinal series by a 2-1 score, Detroit Coach Sid Abel said, "that's the one which should have been on the national hook-up. It was real rough-and-tumble, old-fashioned hockey."

Whether the two clubs can or will play as close to the vest from here on in is debatable. The Hawks like to play a looser game and if they should jump out ahead of Detroit early in Sunday's game, the Wings will have to open up.

Detroit, which lost 11 to Chicago during the National Hockey League season and had only one victory and two ties, must score a triumph on Chicago ice if the Wings hope to advance to the Stanley Cup final.

If the series goes seven games, Chicago will have the advantage of an extra home game since the Hawks finished second in regular season play, and Detroit was fourth.

After Sunday's game, the scene shifts to Detroit for games Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Pappas Slated As Hurler In Reds' Opener

CINCINNATI (AP) — Right-hander Milt Pappas, recently acquired from the Baltimore Orioles in a swap for Frank Robinson, was named Friday by Manager Don Heffner to pitch the National League opening game Monday for the Cincinnati Reds against the New York Mets.

The Reds acquired Pappas and two other players in exchange for Robinson, one of their top hitters. Pappas had a 13-9 record for Baltimore last season.

Heffner also made it official that rookie Tommy Helms will be at second base, Pete Rose on third, and Deron Johnson in left field for the opening game. Rose was the club's All-Star second baseman last year, and Johnson was the regular third baseman.

Pappas' opponent Monday will be right-hander Jack Fisher, who had the most losses in the majors last season when he posted an 8-24 record for the Mets.

2 Men Charged In Animal Case

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Warrants were issued Friday night charging two Ohio men with cruelty to animals.

Charged were Andy Ball, 36, of Conover, Miami County, and Donald Chamberlain, 28, of De Graff, Logan County, who were arrested earlier this week when the odor and noise from the truck in which they were riding attracted police.

The truck carried 151 dogs bound for "research laboratories."

The warrants were obtained by Jim Bryant, Fayette County Dog Warden.

Ball and Chamberlain were arraigned Wednesday on charges of failure to vaccinate a dog against rabies and possession of unlicensed dogs.

Ball was also charged with driving an unlicensed livestock truck.

Their cases were continued until May 6.

Operation Head Start Held Complete Success

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Robert H. Mihalbaugh, Lima attorney, said in a recent meeting with R. Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, that some counties in Ohio's 4th Congressional District have "vigorously undertaken the battle against disease, sickness and poverty."

He called Operation Head Start a "complete success" in the district.

But Mihalbaugh, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the 4th district, condemned what he called "the high salaries being paid to bureaucrats in the Columbus Office of Economic Opportunity."

Operation Head Start is a program to help poor children in the district.

Strikers At Armco Urged To Defy Order Of Court

The Armco Steel Corp. asked members of the United Steelworkers Union Friday to turn out in force at the plant's gates Monday in defiance of a court order.

Leonard Jobe, a member of local 1865, told about 1,500 members of the local their right to demonstrate supersedes the union's contract with Armco.

Circuit Judge Chesley Lyan earlier had issued a permanent injunction against picketing or demonstrating at the plant by strikers.

Jobe made his appeal at the plant's main gate, where the members met after reportedly being turned away from a meeting between local 1865 officials and Paul Rusen of Wheeling.

W.Va., district director of the union. They reportedly were working on proposals to present to members of the local at a meeting called for today by Paul F. Gilman, local president.

Lyan's court order will not become effective until 6 a.m. Monday because of the Easter weekend.

The judge also held in abeyance a contempt of court charge against nine pickets accused of violating his original order against congregating at the plant's main entrances.

Claude Asbury, attorney for the defendants, objected to the ruling and asked that Armco be required to file a $10 million bond for allegedly infringing upon the civil rights of demonstrators. Lyan permitted the objection to be entered but made no decision as to the bond.

Armco's assistant works manager, J. Edward Maddox, claimed any walkout or work stoppage by local 1865 was in violation of a contract negotiated last September.

Officials of local 1865 already have termed the walkout illegal and have asked members to return to the jobs they left last Monday.

The dispute stemmed from the temporary suspension of an employee in the blast furnace department.

Commissioner Of Police In Pennsylvania Resigns

HARRISBURG (AP)—State Police Commissioner E. Wilson Purdy has resigned his $20,000-a-year post in the midst of a House investigation into alleged wiretapping.

Purdy, charging the investigating committee with a "vicious politically inspired attack" upon his character, submitted his resignation Friday to Gov. Scranton.

Scranton accepted it "with deep regret" and immediately

New Commissioner Was Born In Baden

HARRISBURG (AP)—Maj. Paul A. Rittelmann, who has been named acting state police commissioner, is a native of Baden in Beaver County.

Rittelmann, 57, was born Nov. 14, 1908, and joined the force in October 1930. He is married and the father of six children.

named Maj. Paul A. Rittelmann, superintendent of the State Police Academy at Hershey, as acting commissioner.

Rittelmann, 57, with 36 years on the force, will assume the rank of lieutenant colonel and deputy commissioner.

The current deputy, Lt. Col. Frank McKetta, said Friday night he was unable to serve as acting commissioner because of ill health. He said he has asked to be reassigned.

The governor also announced that court martial proceedings would be instituted against Maj. Willard J. Stanton and Det. Angelo Caracci, two central figures in the House special investigation.

Caracci testified before the committee last Feb. 22 that he, on orders from his superiors, had used wiretapping devices in official police work. Wiretapping is prohibited in Pennsylvania under a 1957 law.

Purdy said in a seven-page letter to the governor:

"I want to assure you, as I have in the past, with all of the honesty and sincerity at my command, that I have not been guilty of any wrongdoing, either morally or legally, and more specifically, I assure you that I have not ordered, directed, or had any knowledge of any alleged wiretapping by any member or members of the Pennsylvania State Police."

Scranton called Purdy's resignation "a sad day for law enforcement in Pennsylvania," adding:

"The worst kind of politics has won a battle for the lawless element in our society."

Both Scranton and Purdy were highly critical of the House committee, which was created by a resolution proposed by majority Democrats.

Scranton said Purdy's enemies "set out to destroy the effectiveness of the state police commissioner... because they have hoped to reinstate outside influences in the operations of the state police."

Purdy said he was shocked by the conduct of the committee hearings at which, he said there was no opportunity of "cross-examination, presentation of witnesses, or the confrontation of so-called accusers."

He was specifically critical of Rep. Herbert Fineman, D-Philadelphia, who touched off the wiretapping phase of the probe. "With the addition of Rep. Fineman to that committee, it immediately turned from a fact-finding body to an accusatorial inquisition of the worst sort," Purdy said.

Fineman said that Purdy's resignation was proper because he "implemented wiretapping that was contrary to law," and he was "trying to shield the truth from the committee."

Rep. Ronald G. Lench, D-Beaver, said the committee, of which he is chairman, had no personal or political grudge against Purdy.

"We merely were following the purpose set out in the resolution which set up the committee to study administration of the state police," Lench said.

He said the committee would meet Tuesday to determine its next course of action. The wiretapping phase of the investigation came to a halt last month when Scranton ordered state police officers not to testify. Since then, the committee has been seeking contempt citations against Purdy and three subordinates.

Scranton said the court martial proceedings would be initiated against Stanton and Caracci in order that "these charges will be put forth and opportunity for defense against same given through proper... proceedings."

Stanton, former state police chief of detectives, said when he receives official notification of the court martial, he will reply as set forth by law. He had no further comment.

Although he signed a statement for Scranton and Purdy denying any knowledge of the alleged wiretapping, Stanton invoked the fifth amendment 77 times in an appearance before the committee.

He subsequently was reassigned to the State Police Academy by Scranton.

Caracci, who has been on sick leave, was not available for comment. His attorney, Paul M. Chalfin, said, however, that Caracci's actions were "all done under direct orders of his superiors..."

Meanwhile, Scranton said, a Justice Department probe continued.

"I feel certain that if there was an incident or incidents of wiretapping, and I must assume this in view of the statements made by Det. Caracci, these activities were conducted by very few, if more than one, overzealous state policemen, and then only in their desire or attempt to combat and stamp out organized crime in this great commonwealth," Scranton said.

"These were mistakes of the mind and not of the heart; however, such activity cannot be condoned or overlooked."

Purdy, 46, was appointed commissioner after Scranton took office in 1963. He was chief of police in St. Petersburg, Fla., at the time of his appointment. Previous to that he spent 12 years with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Overseas Fine Paid

LEECHBURG, Pa. (AP)—Police in this Western Pennsylvania town recently received from Italy an international postal money order for $1.00 in payment of a parking meter violation fine. Chief Ivan Materer said he was unable to determine when the ticket was issued. He identified the sender as Pierina Corso Colombano of the Province of Torino, Uova, Italy.

Arrests Due After Finding Bogus Money

WILLOW GROVE, Pa. (AP)—U.S. Secret Service agents say they expect to make several arrests shortly after raiding a motel room and finding a duffel bag loaded with an estimated $750,000 in counterfeit money.

One man, identified as John Buckman Hollinshead, 45, of Jenkintown, co-owner of a plumbing firm, was arrested during the raid Friday. He was charged with possession of counterfeit money and is being held in $10,000 bail for grand jury action.

Agents said they were led to the motel room because of a series of events which included the discovery by an Ardley, Pa., man of bogus bills in his car last week.

Joseph P. Jordan, head of the Secret Service in Philadelphia, said his men had discovered the bag under a bed. He said it contained "good imitations" of a $20 bill, but that green ink on the reverse side was a little lighter than usual. All bills bore the same serial number.

Agents said they have been tracing bogus bills with this number in the Philadelphia area since last August.

They said that when Nicholas Pileggi, 26, of Ardley, found money in his car and garage last Sunday the bills bore that same number.

They said Pileggi was an innocent bystander, but that they discovered how the money got into his car and this led them to the motel.

Killed By Train

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Veteran railroad switchman Edward T. Wilkinson, 52, of Toledo died Friday night when a train backed over him at the New York Central yards here.

2 IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Truman Bailey who passed away 3 years ago today, April 9, 1963. We miss you now, our hearts are sore. As time goes by we miss you more. Your loving smile, your gentle face. No one can fill your vacant place. Wife and Children

In memory of Floyd E. Tice who passed away April 10, 1963. When the evening shades are falling, And I sit here all alone, In my heart there comes a longing, If you could only come home. They say time heals all sorrows, And helps one to forget, But time so far has only proved how much I miss you yet. Sadly missed by wife June Tice

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, April 9, the 99th day of 1966. There are 266 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1865, Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox, ending the Civil War. On this date

In 1792, the Pennsylvania Legislature granted a charter for the Lancaster Turnpike, the first in the United States. It joined Lancaster with Philadelphia.

In 1866, the Civil Rights Act was passed over President Andrew Johnson's veto. It was the first federal statute to define citizenship and to safeguard civil rights within the states.

Ten years ago — A White House statement declared the United States would observe its commitments to support the United Nations peace mission and would aid any nation in the Middle East which might be subjected to aggression.

Five years ago — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan flew to Canada for discussions following his conference with President John F. Kennedy on world problems.

One year ago — The firing of small, solid-fuel rockets aboard the communications satellite Early Bird put this first commercial spacecraft into an almost circular orbit about 23,000 miles above the earth.

Junior Editors Quiz on LOBSTERS

QUESTION: Why does a lobster walk and not swim?

ANSWER: A lobster can swim as well as walk. He swarms or walks according to the needs of the moment. Lobsters eat crabs or any small sea animals they can catch. Their enormous front claws allow them to seize these small animals. Notice that one claw (A) is heavier than the other (B). The big claw has rounded blunt teeth and is used to crush the prey. With the smaller claw, which has sharper teeth, the lobster tears up his prey. Sometimes the large claw is on the right; sometimes on the left. The meat inside these claws is especially delicious to eat.

At night the lobster tiptoes around on his four pairs of legs, keeping close to the bottom where he can pick up food. But if discovered by an enemy such as an octopus, the lobster swims hurriedly backward as at the top, flipping his tail underneath him to do this. During the day, the lobster usually hides in some crevice or in a burrow. Now you can see why the feelers are so long; for the lobster holds these outside the burrow and waves them around. If they touch something that feels edible, the lobster jumps out and grabs it.

FOR YOU TO DO: Check on a lobster's anatomy the next time you see one in a fish market window. If you live in the country, look carefully in a shallow creek bottom and see if you can spot a crayfish. They are much like lobsters in miniature.

Cora Lee Williams of Greenville, S. C., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior

Gruening Spurs Efforts To Promote Birth Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dove on Viet Nam, Sen. Ernest Gruening turns hawk in his quest for federal efforts to promote population control.

"We're trying to bring this problem out into the open, to dramatize it," the Alaska Democrat said in an interview.

In that effort, Gruening is presiding over the Senate's longest-running show, a nine-month series of hearings on the birth control question.

He doesn't plan to stop until Congress acts.

Gruening, at 79, has been a doctor, a journalist, an appointed governor of Alaska and a senator since it became a state. Along with fellow Democrat Wayne Morse of Oregon, he is one of the two chief Senate critics of U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Gruening said his concern about birth control began more than 50 years ago, when he was attending Harvard Medical School.

Now, without bold government action, he foresees a nation victimized by its own exploding population, packed into a vast urban sprawl, short on water and resources.

"The world isn't going to be fit to live in if the population keeps doubling every 30 years," he said. "I'm glad I won't be alive to see it."

His target now is a bill that would create assistant secretaries of state and welfare to help deal with population control problems abroad and at home.

The measure so calls for a White House conference on population next January.

"It's a very mild bill," Gruening said. "There is nothing drastic about it. It's only a first step. But we're going to keep right on with this."

"If it isn't enacted in this session," he said, "we'll try it again in the next one."

The bill itself has been only a takeoff point for more than 90 witnesses who have testified at 26 hearings.

The 27th is due Monday, with Undersecretary of State Thomas C. Mann as the witness.

Secretary of Welfare John W. Gardner told Gruening Thursday he deems the bill unnecessary. He said the government is doing a good job in the field, will do better, and needs no new legislative authority.

Foreign aid administrator David E. Bell said much the same thing Friday.

"I think it's just plain timidity," Gruening said of Gardner's position. "They're still doing it under the table. We should be doing it frankly. We're not forcing anybody to do anything."

Ruling In Death Due

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cuyahoga County coroner's office will rule in the death of Willie Boyd, 32, Cleveland who was wounded in a shooting Thursday. Boyd died early today at Forest City Hospital from bullet wounds he suffered in a shooting on the east side.

Three Men Hospitalized After Two-Car Accident

Three men were hospitalized as the result of a two-car accident Friday at 10:20 p.m. on Route 170 in Calcutta, a mile and seven-tenths north of Route 30.

The mishap involved cars operated by James Raymond Woody, 21, of Rogers R.D. 1 and Earl W. Leadbetter of Smiths Ferry, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said Leadbetter was northbound when he drove left of center and hit the oncoming Woody car. Leadbetter's car then spun around, went off the left side of the highway, hit a tree and bounced back onto the road, officers reported.

Leadbetter was in "fairly good" condition today at City Hospital with a possible skull injury, a possible right leg injury and chest and back injuries.

Woody was in "fairly good" condition with a possible skull injury.

Jay Pancake, 40, of Negley R.D. 1, a passenger in the Woody car, was in "satisfactory" condition with a fractured right leg.

The left front and right side of Woody's car was demolished, while moderate damage resulted to the Leadbetter vehicle, the patrol said.

Both drivers involved in an accident at 1 a.m. today on Route 30, a tenth of a mile north of the Route 170 intersection for driving while under the influence of alcohol.

The crash involved cars driven by Harry Allen Bennett, 37, of Lisbon R.D. 3 and Allen Ray Johnson, 27, also of Lisbon R.D. 3.

Officers said Johnson made a left turn into the side of the Bennett car. Johnson's car also scraped a utility pole along side the highway. Johnson suffered small head cuts.

Two Killed In Crash Of Private Plane

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The crash of a small private plane near here Friday night took the lives of the pilot and his passenger.

Authorities said the crash may have been caused by a blinding out-of-season snow shower.

An Ohio Highway Patrol spokesman said it was possible the pilot, 32-year-old Raph King of Fairfield, Butler County, may have been trying to land the Cessna 170B on Interstate 70 in the northeast corner of Montgomery County, but missed.

King's passenger, David Wilmer, 22, of Hamilton, died of his injuries in Good Samaritan Hospital here shortly after 8 a.m. Saturday.

Another patrolman said it was possible King became confused by lights from a roadside rest area and thought he was landing at Vandalia Airport. He pointed out that visibility was extremely limited.

A farmer said the plane circled the area for more than a half hour before coming down. It bounced several times, hit a tree and came to rest on its nose in a muddy field just 30 yards from the freeway. There was no fire.

Both men were married. King was a mechanic for the Tank Transit Co. of Fairfield. The crash was between Ohio 201 and 202, near the small community of Sulphur Grove.

The patrol said it had not determined why King was circling the area where he crashed other than he might have been trying to get out of the snow shower.

Third Try For Church

ATLANTA, Ill. (AP) — The Assembly of God church here is looking forward to dedication of its new edifice of worship this summer. This will be the third church since November, 1964. Two previous places of worship having been destroyed by fire. The new $100,000 church has colored sanctuary windows made in West Germany.
